Doheny Gives Orange County Beach Property To State

LAND NEAR DANA POINT PRESENTED

Gift Estimated As Valued At $65,000 and Will Be Accepted By State

2600 FEET OF BEACH

Action of Oil Magnate Assures at Least One State Park In County

DEED TO 41.5 acres of land including 2600 feet of beach, between Dana Point and Capistrano Beach, valued at $65,000, is to be given to the state park commission today by the Petroleum Securities company, owned by the Doheny family, thus assuring Orange county of at least one state park on its sea shore. Condemnation proceedings are now under way for another site between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach and a third tract near San Clemente has been offered to the commission.

The tract near Capistrano was given to the people of the state by Edward L. Doheny, according to an announcement from Henry W. O'Melveny, of the state park commission, who declared that it had been accepted and would be developed as a state park. The property lies between the highway and the ocean between Dana Point and the fork in the roads and viaduct that connects the coast highway with state road 101. The Capistrano Beach subdivision, which lies to the south of the new state park, is a Doheny development.

O'Melveny pointed out that this is the first gift of beach property that has been made to the state and expressed the hope that other wealthy citizens would follow the example set by the Dohenys. Such action, he said, would result for the use of the people beach frontage that is rapidly being fenced off and restricted. The state park commissioner also said that this was the first gift to the commission from the southern part of the state. He also expressed the desire felt by the commission to obtain all the beach property that it was possible to secure.

The company which is making the gift is reported to be controlled and principally owned by Edward L. Doheny and his wife, and members of their family.

The acquisition of this property as a public playground along the famous Orange county coast is not expected to effect the proceedings now under way for condemnation of a much larger site between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach which was instituted by the state at the request of the state park commission some time ago. Commissioner O'Melveny has repeatedly stated that the park body is anxious to obtain all of the beach frontage that it can get hold of.

FLIER IN TEXAS

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Barclay Warburton Jr., who plans to encircle the world by plane and ship, took off here today for San Diego, Calif. Warburton arrived here late yesterday in his small plane from Abilene, Texas. He hoped to reach San Diego by nightfall.

Father, Son to Wed Mother And Daughter

SAN FERNANDO, Calif., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Father and son will marry mother and daughter in a ceremony to be performed here Thursday. Emil A. Jorgen, 52, is to wed Mrs. Mary E. Hardy, 53, while the groom's son, Andrew W. Jorgen, 25, will marry Miss Mary F. Hardy, 28. "How did it happen?" said Mrs. Hardy. "Why, when Mr. Jorgen came to see me, the son came along and fell in love with my daughter. We are all very happy."

WOMEN FLIERS SET NEW MARK OF ENDURANCE

Bobbie Trout and Edna Mae Cooper Continue Aloft For New Records

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Miss Bobbie Trout and Edna Mae Cooper equalled the world's endurance refueling record for women fliers when they were still aloft at 3:46 a. m. this morning, after 42 hours, 16 minutes in the air.

The previous mark, set by Miss Trout and Elinor Smith last summer, was never officially recognized, but the flight now under way has the sanction of the National Aeronautical association and is timed by an official of that body. It was evident that all was well on the ship, the "Lady Rolph" and that the girls would continue an record held by Dale Jackson and Forrest "Burr" of St. Louis.

As the girls passed their first objective of the flight a handful of ground attendants set up a cheer as the plane swooped to about 500 feet from the roof of the airport and a sack was tossed to the ground.

It was believed that the two had written some message as a signal of their joy but this proved not to be the case.

The sack contained only the tin dishes and other utensils which had been given the girls during the breakfast hour.

The fliers were strangely uncommunicative despite the popular theory that the fair sex is talkative. They have dropped no messages since yesterday when they complained of shiny noses and asked for a small mirror.

After last night's rain storm, the skies cleared rapidly today. During the early morning snow flurries appeared over some of the higher mountain altitudes and the record holders flew low to escape the chill. Discarding the usual blackboard and communications between the ship and the ground are carried on in code. A long white board, in the shape of a T, an L or I, laid on the ground, indicates that the refueling craft will go aloft with food, gasoline, oil or messages. At night, neon lights replace the board.

After dark, the fliers communicate with the ground by flashlight—three flashes, need oil; five flashes, running low; two, they are dropping. During the day, notes are dropped, tied to long streamers.

LINER, CAR BARGE COLLIDE IN HARBOR

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The liner George Washington of the Eastern Steamship company made its pier at the foot of Murray street today after colliding with a car float in the dense fog over the harbor. There were 100 passengers aboard.

Meanwhile, the William N. Page, a Mystic Steamship company freighter, was aground at Shinnecock Lighthouse, Long Island, but was said to be in no immediate danger.

HEARING POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Hearing of the appeal of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, convicted of accepting a bribe in the Teapot Dome-Elliott Island scandals, was postponed today in the appellate court here until February 2.

THOUSANDS OF WORKING MEN BACK TO WORK

Railroads In Chicago Send 7000 to Posts—Others To Be Filled Soon

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Thousands of working men who have been without employment for the last few weeks or months will be back at work before the end of January, according to announcements by railroad officials in Chicago.

Approximately 7,000 men returned to work yesterday on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad system, Vice President Frank Walters announced. About half of them, he said, were in Chicago. H. P. Kurrie, vice president of the Monon Lines, said between 600 and 800 men went back to work yesterday in the car and mechanical shops of his line. They will work on a part time basis for the present, he said.

On the Rock Island lines, approximately 2,500 additional men probably will be given work this month, L. C. Britch, vice president, said. The men, he said, would be employed tentatively in the shops, but might be retained permanently.

N. W. Willard, assistant to the president of the Santa Fe railroad, said his road was preparing to hire about 3,000 additional men early this year to lay new tracks and that the work would last until August.

L. A. Men Return
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Nine hundred men employed by the Southern Pacific company went back to full time employment in the Los Angeles shops today, a portion of the 3,500 men on the system returned to full work.

Approximately 7,500 men who have been on part time work in the shops were involved, while an additional 1,000 men were from maintenance of way crews.

MEXICANS AMUSED OVER ASHURST PLAN

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 6.—(UP)—The proposal of United States Senator Henry F. Ashurst that the United States purchase Lower California and part of Sonora from Mexico was received with a mixture of indignation and amusement in official circles here.

Such a transaction would be entirely against Mexican public opinion, even if the government had any desire to consummate such a real estate deal, some officials said. The government is understood to be far from receptive to Ashurst's suggestion, however, and is actually concentrating on a program to "Mexicanize" the district which the Arizona senator thinks the United States should buy.

Neither the American colony at Chihuahua City, where Ashurst was found dead in his room at the Hotel Palacio Sunday, nor friends in Los Angeles have claimed the body, according to reports received here from the Mexican city.

Police said Ashurst killed himself by drinking poison. He had been working as a miner near Chihuahua City for several weeks and acquaintances said he had appeared despondent.

CHARLES CONN DIES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Charles Gerard Conn, band instrument manufacturer, died here last night after a brief illness as he neared his 87th birthday. He had resided here since 1916, when he retired from ownership in the Conn company.

Conn was born in Ontario county, New York, and served in the Civil war, where he rose to the rank of captain. He was given a congressional medal for valor.

Miss Rubens claimed she had been "framed" by her maid, Ruth Palmer, but authorities released Miss Palmer after checking her story and the one told by the actress.

Miss Rubens was ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Henry Ryan on the double charge of violation of the Harrison narcotics act and the narcotics traffic law.

FIRM FIRM SALE ATTACKED

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Hearing will be heard Friday on a suit to block the sale of Pathe Exchange, Inc., to the Radio Keith Orpheum corporation. The suit was brought by the A. B. C. Development corporation, which represents certain Pathe bondholders.

SIX OF 12 ITALIAN PLANES LAND AT NATAL LATE TODAY

Two Forced Down After Long Flight

Most Ambitious Squadron Flight In History Is Proved Success

BULLETIN
NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 6.—Four more planes of the squadron arrived later, making 10 of the 12 craft which left the African coast to complete the flight. The second group of planes landed at 4:35 p. m.

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 6.—(UP)—A group of Italian seaplanes attempting one of the most ambitious squadron flights in military aviation history arrived on the coast of Brazil today after a swift journey across the South Atlantic ocean from Africa.

The first six planes of the squadron of 12 craft, led by Italian Air Minister Italo Balbo, reached Natal at 5:10 p. m. (2:10 p. m. E. S. T.) completing the nonstop transoceanic flight of about 1800 miles in 17 hours and 10 minutes. They averaged about 100 miles an hour. Rain fell intermittently all afternoon.

Two planes were reported by radio to have landed at sea, one beside the S. S. Antonio Mosti, which took it in tow, and the other near the equatorial St. Paul Rocks, some 475 miles east of Natal. A nearby cruiser picked up the crew. A leaking radiator forced the first plane down and motor trouble halted the second.

The flight, which started from Lake Orbetello, in Italy, on December 17, will continue to Rio de Janeiro later.

BODY OF ART ACORD REMAINS UNCLAIMED

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 6.—(UP)—The body of Art Acord, one time famed western motion picture star, today appeared destined for burial in the potter's field of an old Mexican cemetery.

Neither the American colony at Chihuahua City, where Acord was found dead in his room at the Hotel Palacio Sunday, nor friends in Los Angeles have claimed the body, according to reports received here from the Mexican city.

Police said Acord killed himself by drinking poison. He had been working as a miner near Chihuahua City for several weeks and acquaintances said he had appeared despondent.

ALMA RUBENS HELD ON DOPE CHARGES

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Alma Rubens, beautiful screen actress, who was released 11 months ago from a state institution and pronounced cured of the drug habit, faced arraignment today on charges of violating the federal narcotic laws.

Officers said they found 120 grains of narcotics in Miss Rubens' purse and in the hem of one of her evening gowns, which they found in her hotel room.

Miss Rubens claimed she had been "framed" by her maid, Ruth Palmer, but authorities released Miss Palmer after checking her story and the one told by the actress.

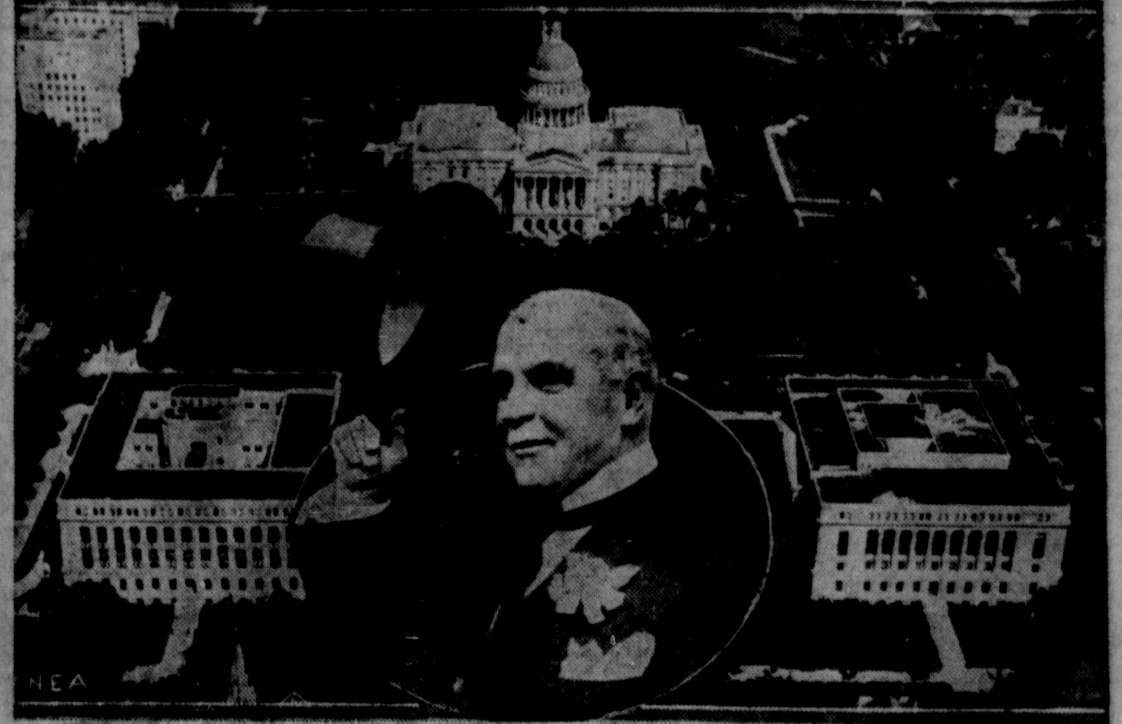

Miss Rubens was ordered to appear before United States Commissioner Henry Ryan on the double charge of violation of the Harrison narcotics act and the narcotics traffic law.

JOHN MITCHELL IS CHOSEN CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY BOARD

Reorganization of the board of supervisors for the ensuing two year period was made today as that body held its first meeting of the new term, resulting in the selection of John C. Mitchell, of Garden Grove, as chairman to succeed Willard Smith, of Orange.

SHORT SELLING OF GRAIN HIT AT WITH BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Legislation to curb speculative grain dealing and to strengthen the enforcement provisions of the grain futures act was introduced in the senate and the house today by Senator Capper, republican, Kansas, and Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa.

Capper said one change contemplated was "aimed at vicious short selling." It would limit to 2,000,000 bushels the quantity of grain futures any individual or firm could trade in for purely speculative purposes in one day.

"Such a limitation," Capper said, in a statement describing his proposed amendment to the futures act, "does not apply to hedging transactions but does apply to spreading operations."

The amendment would forbid any broker to act in behalf of a foreign government in the purchase or sale of grain without consent of the secretary of agriculture, accompanied by full publicity. This provision was designed to prevent a recurrence of the incident last summer, when it was disclosed Soviet Russia had sold wheat short in the Chicago market.

Further action on the drought relief bill, to which the senate added $15,000,000 for food loans, was blocked temporarily in the house by Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York.

LaGuardia prevented the bill from going to conference for consideration of senate amendments, when he failed in his demand to get a vote on a provision which would permit food loans to city people as well as farmers.

31 ARE KILLED BY TYPHOON IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Thirty-one persons are known to be dead, 25 are among the listed missing, two motorships are sunk and four towns are in ruins, in the wake of the typhoon that swept the Philippine provinces of Leyte, Surigao, Cebu and Negros.

The casualty list as compiled to 5 p. m. today by Manila constabulary headquarters was as follows: Dulag—Eleven dead, 18 missing. Aduyog—Five dead, seven missing.

Hilongos—Seven dead. Davao—One dead. Hilongos—Motorship Camacul sank with loss of seven lives.

In addition to the established casualties, many towns and areas in eastern Leyte have not been heard from because of disrupted communications.

Foreign Soldiers Arrive In Paris For Joffre Rites

PARIS, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Foreign troops and distinguished visitors arrived in Paris today to participate in the state funeral services tomorrow for Marshal Joseph Joffre.

A long line of Joffre's countrymen, formed outside the chapel of Saint Louis, several hours before the doors opened, and during the morning, 20,000 walked past the capot where he lay.

The number who paid homage to the old soldier yesterday was estimated at 50,000. A few women fainted in line and two anti-militarists were arrested.

WAR VETERANS TO GET LITTLE THIS SESSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Proposed World war veterans legislation was piled up in the house today calling for appropriation of billions of dollars to add to the $5,337,000,000 already spent for veterans relief since the war.

While the mass of bills served to emphasize the growing expenditure the government must face in caring for its veterans, it also produced such a jam there is slight prospect of the ex-soldier getting much from this session of congress.

On top of the many measures already introduced there has been thrown now by the American Legion a bill proposing 34 amendments to present laws providing for extension of world war pensions, insurances, privileges, compensation and hospitalization. Altogether this would constitute the most elaborate veterans legislation since the war.

If it would increase the maximum of World war veterans disability pensions from $40 to $60 a month; would authorize pensions of $30 a month for widows and $6 a month for each child of a World war veteran; would revive insurance privileges for veterans who have allowed theirs to lapse; would establish allowances for dependents of permanently disabled veterans; would permit treatment of veterans in their homes, if the disability was not incurred in the service, and would add chronic and constitutional diseases to the list of those which are presumed to be of service origin if they developed prior to January 1, 1925.

The provinces of Leyte and Surigao have asked for Red Cross aid for storm sufferers. Thousands of persons are homeless in these areas, according to fragmentary reports arriving in Manila.

Supplies are leaving this city tonight for the stricken country. The lumber schooner Lozano, at sea during the height of the typhoon, has not reported and is feared here to have been lost with a crew of 27.

The motorship Zaragoza founded near consolation, Cebu. All on board were saved. The light motorcraft Carmen and Logano have not been heard from, and search is under way.

The district commander of Visayas islands reported the town of Aduyog as the worst sufferer in eastern Leyte. Five identified bodies have been recovered here. Camotes island was swept completely by the terrific storm, and practically the entire province destroyed.

WORLD TITLE TAKEN FROM SCHMELING

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The New York state athletic commission today deprived Max Schmeling of his title as world champion heavy-weight boxer.

James A. Farley, chairman of the commission said the action was taken because Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, refused to agree now to meet Jack Sharkey in a return bout for the championship in June.

"Joe didn't answer our question 'yes' or 'no,'" Farley said, "the title recognition was then withdrawn from Schmeling and the commission will sanction a bout between Jack Sharkey and an outstanding contender, preferably Stripling, for the world heavy-weight championship."

Farley declared the bout need not necessarily be held in New York state.

Inaugural Ball This Evening Will Bring End to Three Day Celebration

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—James Rolph Jr., today was inaugurated as California's 27th governor in one of the most colorful ceremonies in the history of the state.

Before a large crowd of spectators, assembled before a platform at the west entrance of the state capitol, Rolph repeated the oath of office after Chief Justice William H. Waste of San Francisco.

Clearing skies after a downpour of rain made possible the outdoor spectacle. Rolph succeeds C. C. Young, who returned to private life, closing a career of 22 years in public office.

The inauguration took place shortly after 10 a. m. after both houses of the state legislature were called to order in joint session by Senator Arthur H. Breed, of Oakland, president pro tempore of the state senate, and Speaker Edgar C. Levey, of the state assembly.

An orchestra then played "Smiles" and the invocation was pronounced by the Rt. Rev. Robert Armstrong, Governor Breen then introduced Gov. C. C. Young, who delivered his final address to the legislature.

Oath of Office
After the oath of office was administered, Governor Rolph was presented with the governor's flag by the California National Guard. A governor's salute of 17 guns was fired by army cannon stationed about Capitol park.

The same procedure was followed for the inauguration of Frank P. Merriam as lieutenant governor. The ceremonies closed with playing of the Star Spangled Banner, and a benediction by the Rt. Rev. William Hall Moreland of Sacramento.

Rolph began the reading of his inaugural address after the governor's salute was fired. In it he outlined the new administration policies, indicating that his regime will be along the line of

EIGHT MEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 6.—(UP)—Eight men were killed in an explosion in a mine of the Raleigh Wyoming Coal Mining company at Glenn Rogers, W. Va., early today, according to reports telephoned to R. M. Lambie, chief of the department of mines.

The explosion occurred at 4 a. m. Lambie was advised. Between 40 and 50 men were in the mine. Rescue crews were dispatched immediately from Charleston.

Lambie said he understood all but the eight men escaped. He said he was informed they were trapped under tons of slate which crashed from the roof when the blast let go. The mine is 20 miles from Beckley and 90 miles from Charleston.

GOV. ROLPH TO GET TOM MOONEY PLEA

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—With the inauguration today of James J. Rolph as governor of California, another plea for pardon was expected to be made soon by Tom Mooney, serving life imprisonment with Warren Billings for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness day bombing.

As one of his final official acts yesterday, retiring Governor C. C. Young refused to alter his decision of last June, when he turned down Mooney's petition for freedom.

Young is understood to have said he had no intention of altering his decision.

Rain again visited Orange county last night and all along the line the season's totals were advanced another step beyond their marks for last year. Farmers and city dwellers alike slept the more soundly for the patter of the rain, which lasted throughout the night in some places although in others it came in a more sudden downpour.

In the southern part of the county, particularly in the neighborhood of San Juan Capistrano, it was reported that the shower was a steady one throughout the night, and that all of the moisture was soaked up by the thirsty ground without any runoff.

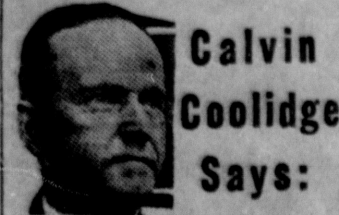

Despite the fact that the precipitation in the Santa Ana area and also in other northern regions was sudden, reports stated that the ground absorbed all of it.

In Santa Ana the rain was heralded by a bracing west wind, which subsided as the big drops of rain began to fall. In the Anaheim and Fullerton region it was reported that the wind was from the north.

Orange, Villa Park, West Orange and West Park reported the highest totals for the season, the figures being 3.15, 3.32, 3.19 and 3.04 respectively.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

By CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of United States
NORTHAMPTON, MASS., JAN. 6.—Another proposal to be made in the name of relieving unemployment will undoubtedly be an extension of government ownership. Healthy and normal employment consists of serving another for his personal satisfaction or profit. As the government is not personal, its proper business employment would be for those serving for its profit. Public works are on a different footing and need not be considered.

For the wage earners to benefit in time of general depression it would be necessary to assume that government ownership would prevent fluctuations in the business in which it engages. Our largest government business is the post office in which receipts rise and fall extensively. If it is assumed that payment of wages will go on without work, that is not employment but relief. Then no one should work.

The government has never shown much aptitude for real business. The congress will not permit it to be conducted by a competent executive but constantly intervenes.

The most free, progressive and satisfactory method ever devised for the equitable distribution of property is to permit the people to care for themselves by conducting their own business. They have more wisdom than any government.

respectively. The storm figures were 41, 42, 45 and 49 respectively. Santa Ana enjoyed a rainfall of .45 of an inch last night, giving it a season total of 2.85 inches as against a total of 1.05 at this time last year.

HUGE CATHEDRAL
LONDON—One of the largest Roman Catholic churches in the world is to be erected on Brownlow Hill. It is to cost in the neighborhood of $10,000,000, and it is expected that 20 years will be needed to finish the construction work.

JAIL TERMS TO BE IMPOSED ON DRUNK DRIVERS

If you drive an automobile in Santa Ana while under the influence of liquor and are arrested, just prepare to go to jail for not less than 30 days.

This is the stand that Judge J. F. Talbot, of the city police court, now takes towards drunken drivers. He has come to the end of fining motorists brought into his court on reckless driving charges which have been reduced to driving a car while under the influence of liquor.

Virtually all motorists arrested by Santa Ana police on drunk driving charges have the felony charge reduced to reckless driving before they get to court. Outsiders were of the opinion that this was done so the city of Santa Ana would receive the fines imposed. But such is not the case, because in the future, whether the city gets a dime or not, motorists charged with reckless driving, if they have been drinking, will go to jail, Judge Talbot said today.

The judge changed his views on sentences in such cases just this past week. As a result, three men are now in the county jail, serving 30 day sentences for reckless driving. All but one of these has a fine to pay when his term expires.

The district attorney's office has taken the stand that the prisoners do not have to serve their 30 days and pay the fine too, and there is some talk of allowing the prisoners their freedom after the 30 day period. The judge said whether the fine is paid or not.

In answer to this, Judge Talbot said today that if the prisoners were released at the expiration of their terms and the fines were not paid, he would get out an execution forcing the payment of the fines.

Never before in the history of Santa Ana has the police court sent men to prison and ordered them to pay fines too, but in the cases of Randall Wallace, of Santa Ana, and Thomas B. Smith, of Los Angeles, Judge Talbot ordered them to jail for 30 days and also levied fines. Wallace must pay $150 fine and Smith a $100 fine at the conclusion of the jail sentences.

"Maybe it can't be done," Judge Talbot said today. "Maybe it can. We'll see," he said. The judge then pointed out section 121 of the Motor Vehicle law which reads in part: "shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than five days or more than 90 days or by a fine of not less than $25 or more than $50, or BOTH such fine and imprisonment."

He also added that an amendment to this law, quoted from section 153 1-2, provided that no prisoner convicted on such a charge, could be imprisoned more than 90 days if a fine was levied with a jail sentence, the section providing that the jail penalty in no case shall be for a longer period of time than the maximum jail sentence when no fine is levied.

"My theory is that a man can be sent to jail and fined too on such a charge, and if there is anyone who wants to fight it, that is their privilege," he said.

The judge means to break up drunken driving in Santa Ana, he said. He does not believe in making money for the city in his court. That is not the idea, he said.

"Fines and imprisonment received in my court are for punishment," he said.

REFUEL FROM AUTO
ALAMEDA, Cal.—An airplane recently demonstrated here the feasibility of refueling from an automobile. The auto headed into the wind as the plane approached and when both were traveling at about the same speed, the pilot nosed down and was able to hook on to a can of gasoline which one of the occupants of the car held up to him.

REALTY DEALS ARE BASIS OF LAWSUIT

Judgment of $54,431.75 against Clifford F. Reid, Incorporated, et al, is asked in a complaint filed in superior court today by Josie Low, 70-year-old woman, who claims that through fraudulent representations she was induced to turn over that much money or securities for investment in Hollywood Riverfront between March, 1929, and December, 1930.

The plaintiff asserts that she is old and infirm and was told by the defendants not to discuss her investments with her friends, and that she relied on their information and representations until December 15. A number of causes of action are listed in the complaint, setting forth various amounts which she asks the court to order returned.

POLICIES OUTLINED TO SOLONS

economy, but "not of parsimony." Discussing every phase of the state government, the new governor displayed a familiarity with the situations existing in all departments of the state.

"The greatest business of the state is the business of government, and it is the least understood," he declared. "Government should be conducted on lines of economy, but not on a basis of parsimony."

Indicating that he intended to carry this theory into practice, Governor Rolph said that conditions in state institutions, particularly prisons, are in need of correction.

Crowded Prisons
Overcrowding prisons are a breeding place for future crimes, where broken, dispirited men more readily plot against their fellows; and sordid and embittered, they plot against society, he asserted. State prisons should be so enlarged that they will give opportunity for segregation and constant and wholesome employment for the inmates, even at the expense of building additional prisons, according to the chief executive.

There will be no occasion to seek additional sources or increased rates of revenue in the coming biennium as the normal increase in revenue should take care of the normal increase in expenditures, in the opinion of Governor Rolph, and he added:

"I am well aware that state and local taxes have become a serious burden on real estate, agriculture, industry, business, and the whole population. To keep taxation as low as possible without impairing the service which modern, humane and civilized government ought to render to the public will be my constant concern."

He recommended establishment in the state board of equalization of a permanent, non-political, fact-finding body, to serve as a permanent tax commission studying taxation and means of lightening the burden of taxes in California.

Water Problem
Difficulties of the water problem in California are mainly financial, the governor said. Economically, the causes proposed so far seem about as bad as the disease, in his opinion. Robbing or wrecking of one section in order to sustain another is not sound. Impoverishment of farmers of any section in order to bring under cultivation lands whose yields will merely augment the existing over-production of farm products, he said.

He expressed determination to do everything in his power to lessen and alleviate the reclamation tax problem, where farmers are carrying heavy burdens of reclamation and irrigation taxes.

Liberal financial support of the entire public school system, from kindergarten to university, will always have his favorable consideration, he asserted.

With expenditures in the department of agriculture steadily increasing, Governor Rolph asked what had been accomplished by this expenditure.

"Our farmers are earning less for their labor and investment than ever before in the history of agriculture," he declared. "Perhaps the department needs all the money it has requested, but surely a large proportion should be spent that more people may eat of the bounty of our rich soil and that our people who cultivate it should have some reward for their labor."

Will Aid Labor
Labor is entitled to its fair share of the benefits brought by machinery, improved methods of distribution, and increasing national wealth, the executive told the legislature, and said he intended to assist each prudent, forward step in that direction.

"One of my urgent ambitions as governor will be to accomplish something in the way of stimulating and reviving the languishing mining industry," Governor Rolph continued. "I would like to see the entire mother lode and all the mining regions humming with activity."

A hint that part of the gasoline tax money may be used to aid cities now supporting main highway arteries through their streets was seen when the governor said:

"I expect to ask our highway authorities to co-operate in construction of roads inside incorporated cities that are logically direct connections and a part of our state system to the extent possible with funds available under existing law, without jeopardizing carrying on of the state highway program."

Confiscation of the building and loan association laws, modernizing them to suit present conditions, will be advocated by the governor, he declared. Although associations will not be unfairly restricted, they will be placed on a thoroughly sound basis worthy of complete public confidence, he insisted.

Concluding his speech, Governor Rolph said:

"I wish to imbue the people of California with my own faith in California. I wish to begin my administration on a note of hope and confidence. Be prepared by holding such hope and confidence to follow my leadership into the bright days which I see just ahead."

RE-APPRAISAL OF LAND URGED BY FARM BODY

The matter of a re-appraisal of land in Orange county received attention of the board of directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau yesterday in its regular session at the Farm Bureau offices and resulted in a decision to actively increase of the budget of the tax assessor's office to provide for employment of two or more men for this purpose.

Officers of the organization were instructed to work for this project, which must come as a recommendation from the grand jury, receive the endorsement of the board of supervisors and then be authorized by the state legislature. The increase in budget as recommended by the tax assessor's office, limited to $11,250 and is to provide for employment of two or more men to set values on all land in the county during a two-year period under the supervision of Tax Assessor James Sleeper.

Sleeper previously has requested that this be done, but the board of supervisors was without authority to act in the matter. It is believed by Farm Bureau officials that the measure will receive active support from other organizations in the county. 8-Hour Day For Employees of Tool Company In Brea

BREA, Jan. 6.—Workers at the Shaffer Tool works here today received the welcome news that they are to be put back on a full eight-hour shift instead of the six-hour shift which has prevailed for some weeks.

W. D. Shaffer, president of the company, stated that foreign orders for the Shaffer products will this month reach approximately $46,000 and that work already in the shop and local orders to be filled will easily bring the total up to $50,000 before the month is finished.

Shaffer also stated that the outlook, so far as his company's business is concerned, is most promising, inquiries from new prospects reaching the office in increasing numbers.

Receive Word Of Woman's Arrest

Chief of Police L. C. Rogers today received a telegram from police headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., advising him that Mrs. Ed Snyder, formerly of Costa Mesa, has been arrested in that city and is being held for Santa Ana police. After she is said to have cashed a number of checks, Mrs. Snyder, accompanied by her eight children, and her brother, Roy Bryson, left here last November in an automobile for the east. The wire advising of her arrest requested details regarding the complaint against her. E. T. Mateer, of Santa Ana, filed the complaint that led to a warrant being issued for her arrest.

PREACHES AT EVANGELICAL CHURCH HERE

Introducing the annual week of prayer union services of the churches of Santa Ana being held this year in the First Evangelical church, Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of San Francisco, devoted his opening message to a plea for Christ-like living.

"Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus" was the text for his sermon.

"Jesus is the great pattern. We cannot escape Him. He is set as a fixed in the firmament of our spiritual and moral life as the sun is set in the heavens. He is present in every field of human life. For more than two thousand years His life and teaching have given the race its loftiest inspiration and its greatest hope and comfort.

"When men give Him the mastery and undisputed sway they become wiser and better. He cleanses the inner life and adorns the outer. His presence in the human heart means that evil will be cast out and beauty and truth enthroned. Our nature, once harsh and ugly, are made sweet and lovely with patience and kindness."

Bishop Moore pointed out five of the characteristics of the Master's wonderful life as a man. These were humility, purity, compassion, loyalty and victory.

"Jesus lived before us this new life and opens up to us as His followers the boundless possibilities of growth. From the moment a man believes in Jesus, his nature becomes different from what it was before. He receives a new heart. Another influence takes possession of him; a new love encompasses him. The search for Christ-likeness becomes the master principle of his life. Our need today is not for more theology or more elaborate and stately ritual or ceremony, but of a new seeking after the spirit of Jesus. If we who name His name could take His spirit into the contacts and attitudes of everyday life, the world would immediately become a sweeter, fairer world in which to live."

This evening at 7:30 o'clock Bishop Moore will be heard in another sermon of the series. His theme for this evening is "Does Prayer Still Avail?"

James Nuckolls will have charge of the music of the evening, and Dr. C. M. Aker, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, will preside. The service is at the Evangelical church, corner of Tenth and Main streets and the invitation is extended by the Ministerial association to all people to attend and profit by the sermon.

COLLEGIANS PLAN MOUNTAIN PARTY

Final plans were made for the annual junior college snow party of which the college Junior Lions are in charge, when they met last night at Ketter's cafe. The organization will spend the preceding night at Ed Meador's cabin at Forest home, where the snow party will take place, January 10.

It was announced that final initiation for pledges would be held at the next meeting. Members and pledges present were Burt Wilkins, Omar Williams, John Smith, Stewart McPherson, Abbott Mason, Ray Gleasner, Richard Robbins, Willard Minor, Charles Greenleaf, Ed Meador, Oran Asa, Truscott Lindsey, Elvin Lindley and Martin Bowman.

NOTED SPEAKER

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, of San Francisco, preached the initial sermon of the annual union week of prayer meetings, held last night at the First Evangelical church. Bishop Moore made a plea for Christ-like living, in his sermon. He will speak again tonight on the subject, "Does Prayer Still Avail?"

MRS. COMFORT WILL LEAVE ON FOREIGN TRIP

Mrs. Nettie Comfort, of Van Ness avenue, who left Santa Ana in December to spend the holidays with her sister, Mrs. J. A. McFadden, of Omaha, Neb., is planning to leave at an early date for Washington, D. C., where she will take a secretarial position with the party of which Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lacy, 705 South Broadway, are members.

This group of capitalists will leave in February for a business voyage to various foreign countries, the first part of the trip to consume approximately 14 months. Mr. and Mrs. Lacy and their little daughter, Billie Elizabeth, left Santa Ana in the autumn, and have been in Washington where preliminary business matters connected with the voyage, have demanded Lacy's attention.

Mrs. Comfort formerly was secretary and bookkeeper at the Cadillac company under Lacy. In letters received by Mrs. Chester Watkins, Mrs. Comfort told of her plans, and also spoke of the bleakness of Nebraska winter weather as compared with the charm of sunny California.

Woman's Club to Hold Card Party

BREA, Jan. 6.—Mrs. G. C. Polckemer, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Brea Woman's club, has announced a country store card party which is to be given in the club rooms on the evening of January 30.

Twenty-four prizes, including a door prize, are to be awarded. The prizes are being donated by members of the club and many of them are handmade articles of interest. The club women are slowly adding sums to their treasury which eventually will result in making it possible for them to own their own club property.

COUNTY BOARD OPENS BIDS ON TWO PROJECTS

Bids were opened today by the board of supervisors on two construction projects, one involving a new concessions building and laboratories at Irvine park and the other a dwelling to be erected at the county yard on Fruit street as headquarters for the resident engineer. Nine bids were submitted on the improvements at the park and 10 on the dwelling.

Architects were asked to tabulate the bids and report them back to the board during the afternoon session. Frederick Eley is architect for the park work and Frank Lansdown for the building at the county yard.

Prices submitted for the work at the park were as follows: R. C. McMillan, $18,237; Jules W. Markel, $18,768; Barrows Construction company, $19,559; John C. Blystone, $17,836; William Rohrbacher, $17,800; Adolf G. Schmid, $19,850; O. T. Moore, $16,918; Fred Bozarth, $19,967; and H. M. Massey, $18,074.

On the five room house the bids were as follows: Therman Means, $5090; Barrows Construction company, $5158; John C. Blystone, $4291; J. E. Hancock, $4653; O. F. Fowler, $4552; O. T. Moore, $4935; R. C. McMillan, $5415; W. J. Pickering, $4311.50; Ed Noe, $5080; and N. U. Potter, $4914.45.

FIRE TRUCK PARADE SET FOR WEDNESDAY

The quarterly meeting of the Southern California Association of Foresters and Fire Wardens will be held in Santa Ana on Wednesday, according to J. A. Scherman, state forest ranger.

Arrangements have been made for the parade of trucks and fire equipment to leave the court house, Santa Ana, at 1:15 p. m. Captain Meehan, of the state police, is to lead the parade. Included in the parade will be two trucks from Santa Bernardino national forest, two trucks from Angeles national forest, and four trucks from the state division of forestry.

C. H. Reinmuller, assistant fire warden of Los Angeles county, and N. H. Davis, forest ranger of Angeles national forest, are in charge of the demonstration, which will start between 1:30 and 2 p. m., and will be held one-fourth mile west of Irvine park.

An attempt will be made at this meeting to keep the two fire trucks which will be delivered here for permanent use in Orange county. The general public is invited to attend.

SEEK TO SOLVE WORK PROBLEM IN SANTA ANA

Revealing a serious situation in the unemployment problem now facing the city, which has resulted not only in destitution bordering on starvation in some families but also in causing others to lose their homes because of failure to meet installment payments, reports were read and discussed at a conference held yesterday afternoon at the city council chamber, attended by members of the city council and the ministers of the various churches here. Mayor Frank L. Parinton presided.

In calling the meeting to order, John West Admits He Didn't Know Wife Darkened Hair

When I see gray I see old age. Youth is every woman's right, so don't let hair get gray. Just use this improved formula made from that wonderful old recipe of common sage tea and sulphur. Nothing better. Gray disappears overnight. And after two or three applications your hair will be the exact shade you want. So evenly, so naturally darkened nobody'll ever know. Just pay your druggist 75c for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur and follow the simple directions.—Adv.

Mayor Parinton explained that the unemployment situation had reached such a serious and acute stage that it can no longer be ignored or disposed of with a shrug of the shoulder as if a passing malady, but must be faced as a serious community problem. Because of this fact, he said, and in order to enlist the aid and co-operation of the responsible part of the citizenry, he had called together the ministers of the various churches as a preliminary step to a city-wide community undertaking.

Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, in charge of the municipal employment bureau, stated that since the office was opened about a month ago not less than 446 applications for employment had been received. Of this number, 62 were from women. About half of the applications were from men with families, many of the old residents, home-owners, reduced to a destitute condition, and unless relief is afforded, will lose their homes on which they have been paying taxes and installment payments for several years, she explained. At the same time, it was brought out that a considerable number of the single men applying for work have parents or others dependent upon them for support.

The fact was stressed by Mrs. Spangler in submitting her report that none but bona fide residents had been listed in the employment office, and that the situation that she described had to do with Santa Ana people, residents who have been identified with the upbuilding of the community. Laying off of help by corporations and business houses on account of the present depression was given as one of the reasons for the present state of unemployment in the city.

Councilman Stanley E. Goode took issue with the asserted indifferent attitude adopted by a large number of citizens, many of whom would be in position to render effective assistance. Many people take the view that the problem is one for the city government to solve, when as a matter of civic responsibility it is one that concerns every citizen in the community, he added. With the limited funds at its disposal the city council will do all in its power to relieve the situation, but it must have the co-operation and assistance of the citizens, particularly those in position to do so, he declared.

J. F. Burke suggested that the seriousness of the situation be explained by the ministers to the various church congregations, and that each church assume responsibility for employing one, two, three or more men for a number of months.

Appointment of a special committee to confer with financial institutions in the matter of protecting the homes of unemployed people, the creating of a citizens advisory committee to deal with the situation in the matter of finding work for unemployed, and the raising of a citizens' voluntary relief fund to finance projects for which no public funds are available, were among suggestions offered.

ALL OFFICERS RETURNED BY COUNTY BOARD

Selection of county appointive officials, which was made by the board of supervisors today after its reorganization confirm all present office holders in positions they have been filling.

Officials which are continued for an additional two-year term by action of the board today, together with their monthly remuneration, are as follows: Janitor, D. H. Patrick, $240; custodian county garage, Frank P. Lamar, $225; aid commissioner, W. S. Gregg, $250; superintendent of county hospital and county farm, Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, $500; purchasing agent, F. W. Schlaubaugh, $300; fire and game warden, W. E. Adkinson, $50; gardener, George M. Benedict, $110; live stock inspector and humane officer, H. L. Wilkins, $50; custodian county park, Fay Irwin, $150; meat inspector, John H. Bower, $250; county health officer, Dr. K. H. Sutherland, $350; superintendent of highways, Nat H. Neff, $400; assistant to superintendent county farm, in charge of laundry department, Ida Zaiser, $75.

The board also affirmed an appointment made by County Recorder Justine Whitney, making R. C. Mize deputy recorder as attorney, at a salary of $100 per month.

The registration of Helen Craemer as county statistician was accepted by the board and E. Gertrude Heile, a deputy in the office of County Auditor W. T. Lambert, was appointed to fill the vacancy. Miss Craemer takes a position on the staff of the auditor.

Appointments also were made of Charles Kuchel as justice of the peace, and E. D. Marion, as constable, both for Anaheim township. These officials were elected at the primary last August, but neglected to file their oaths of office in the time prescribed by law, and the positions were consequently left unfilled until the appointments by the board today.

Charles Carrillo, who was appointed four years ago at the reorganization of the board as court interpreter, was not reappointed to that position today as various positions were filled. Inquiry revealed that Carrillo is working at the pleasure of the courts under an act of the 1929 legislature, an interpreter being appointed for each case as the need arises.

Gypsy Woman Is Given Freedom

Failure on the part of Adolph Girardelli, retired business man, 914 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, to identify the accused, Mrs. Olga Adams Davis, as the gypsy woman who several months ago swindled him out of $500, yesterday afternoon caused Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison to dismiss a charge of grand theft against the defendant.

Carolina Woman Lost 47 Lbs.

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that it is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan., 1930. "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Mater's Drug Store, Glens & Cannon, and drugists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—out out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.—Adv.

DR. FREDERICK P. WOELLNER TO ADDRESS JOINT MEETING OF P.-T. A. SOCIETIES HERE

A discussion of modern education and its relation to modern children by Dr. Frederick P. Woellner, of Los Angeles, one of the leading educators and speakers of the state, is to feature the joint meeting of the P.-T. A. associations of the Frances Willard and Julia Lathrop Junior High schools which will be held in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday.

A large crowd is expected to be attracted by the speaker, who is a member of the department of education of the University of California at Los Angeles, and who is noted for his dry humor and same philosophy. He has written a number of text books which are widely used, his latest being "Highlands of the Mind." The subject he will speak on at the meeting Thursday is "What Modern Education is Trying to Do for the Modern Child."

Joint meetings of the two junior high associations will be held occasionally in the future, it was learned today, when there is a special subject or prominent speaker on the program. Plans are being made to bring Dr. Herbert Stoltz, another outstanding man in the field of education, to address the two associations in April.

Every person who is interested in the modern educational movement is invited by P.-T. A. officials to attend the two joint meetings that are planned. Dr. Margaret Baker, president of the Frances Willard association, and Mrs. M. E. Goetting, president of the Julia Lathrop group, will preside jointly at the session next Thursday night.

TUBBS BACK FROM TRIP TO PHOENIX

John W. Tubbs, former mayor of Santa Ana, who recently disposed of his interests in the Reid Motor company in this city, has just returned from a short trip to Phoenix over the holidays.

Tubbs is planning to take a three months vacation before re-entering business in Santa Ana in the automotive field, he said today. He plans to take a trip to Boulder dam and into Texas later this month and on his return from that trip will join a group of Orange county men in a fishing and cruising expedition into Mexican waters along Lower California. Accompanying him on the cruise will be George Shattuck, R. O. Winkler and L. G. Swales.

BANDITS STEAL $25 IN DARING CAFE ROBBERY

Three heavily armed bandits traveling in a coupe, staged a daring holdup at Rob Cavanaugh's cafe, Westminster, shortly after midnight this morning, and after robbing the proprietor of $25 in cash, and merchandise to the value of $5, made their escape toward Santa Ana.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Ellis and Nicholson, who investigated the robbery, the three men entered the place and ordered meals. While eating, their conversation centered itself about radios. Before finishing their meals, however, one of the trio stepped back into the kitchen for the purpose of getting more coffee, though investigating officers believe that his visit to the kitchen was to satisfy himself that there was no other person about the place. As the men stepped up to the counter to pay for their meals, one of them shoved a gun in the ribs of Cavanaugh, and told him to shell out. While the proprietor was handing over his money another bandit was guarding the entrance and the third one went out and got the car started. The proprietor recognized one of the robbers as a man who had visited his place a couple of nights before.

company headed by William Thornton who has been acclaimed by critics as one of the foremost interpreters of the great playwright.

The Shakespeare Guild of America was organized by a group of prominent Californians who had long planned to sponsor a company of trained Shakespearean actors. The advent of William Thornton into prominence by reason of his outstanding performance of "Hamlet" was the occasion for the fruition of their plans and Thornton was signed on contract for a 10 year period.

Thornton will appear on tour with the Guild's repertory company not only in the larger centers of population but in the small towns and wherever schools, colleges or other educational institutions are located. A selected list of Shakespearean plays will be presented each season.

Plans of the Guild call for appearance of the company in Santa Ana Junior college auditorium on January 12, presenting "Romeo and Juliet," and on January 13, with "The Merchant of Venice." Tickets are being handled by the Santa Ana Bookstore.

JAYCEE OFFICE SEEKERS TAKE OUT PETITIONS

Opening the election campaigns for the second semester balloting for Santa Ana Junior college associated student officers, petitions for nominations were taken out this morning by the campaign managers of the various candidates.

Four candidates filed papers for the office of president and one of the closest votes in the history of the school is predicted when the students state their choices in the election on January 20. Nomination speeches will be given in assembly on January 13. If no candidates receive a majority in the first vote, a runoff will be held the same week.

For the office of president, the four men running are John "Sky" Dunlap, former editor of El Don, college newspaper and president of the Press club and Longfellow club; Ray Gleason, president of the Junior Lions and O. K. club; Warren Schutz, president of the Bachelors club and vice-president of the students; and Wayne Flinn, commissioner of forensics.

That the race for vice-president also may mean a hot contest is probable, as Oran Asa, editor-in-chief of El Don and secretary of Junior Lions, and Maybelle Hall, social commissioner and president of Beta Gamma, have announced their candidacy for the office. For secretary Miss Ada Marie Hendrickson so far is the only candidate, and Bruce Harding is the only one up for treasurer.

The first evidences of the political fight appeared early today when a flood of posters was distributed.

ANOTHER CHANCE TO LEARN ENGLISH AND ARITHMETIC

Mid-winter term of free evening classes opens January 6 and 8, 1931. Write to Department of Adult Education, 115 Church street, or phone 4250 for further information.

English section 111 is a new class to be organized for those who wish to start on a study of correct speech forms to improve their everyday use of English. It will meet in room 213 of the junior college, with Miss Lillian Kirkwood on Tuesday evenings. Section 11 also will meet on Tuesdays in room 201 of the junior college, with Miss Levenia Scott. It will be a continuation of last term's work, emphasizing letter forms and sentence structure. On Thursdays section one will meet in room 209 of the junior college, with Miss Edith B. Aiton. The course will be based upon the work of two previous terms, structure. Punctuation and dictations will be stressed.

Applied arithmetic under Milton V. Newcomer is a continuation of work done last term but an entirely new unit of work is being taken up which is in no way dependent upon the work previously done. The 10 lessons, as tentatively outlined, includes the following subjects: The merits and features of the various types of stocks and bonds; saving money; making the family budget; installment buying; sound investment policies; business crimes and fraudulent investments; planning an investment program for men and women of various ages for their individual purposes; creating a trust fund; contracts and wills. Each lesson is planned to meet the every day need of life's activities in the business world. Each lesson includes the mathematical problems which that subject logically involves.

Each lesson topic is a unit within itself. No previous work in this subject is necessary. The class is open to anyone who has an interest in any of these subjects.

The notice of the class in mechanical drawing was unintentionally omitted in the printed circulars. The class has met at the bungalow in the past but will be changed to

BUILDERS TO MEET AT ANNUAL BANQUET

More than 200 members and guests are expected to attend the ninth annual banquet of the Orange County Builders exchange to be held tonight at the American Legion hall. It was announced today by Frederic W. Sanford, secretary-manager of the exchange.

A portion of the evening will be given over to the installation of new officers and directors, and the announcement of standing committees for the coming year.

A program has been arranged by a committee made up of C. M. Gilbert, chairman; A. L. Forster, W. J. Kelly, and Harold Smith, and Mrs. Sid J. Babcock.

Following the dinner and the entertainment program, there will be cards and dancing, it was announced.

RADIO ARTIST PLANS TO PLAY ALL REQUESTS

Christine Lambert, of Orange, who has played over well known radio stations in the East as well as in the West, will introduce a novel type of piano entertainment over KREG tomorrow night. The informal program will be one in which listeners will have a chance to play a big part, for the artist has volunteered to play any selection called for by the fans.

The game will consist in trying to "stump" the pianist with requests, and every listener is invited to phone KREG for his favorite selection to be played tomorrow night. The telephone number is 4900 and there will be someone on the phone every minute to receive calls.

The musician plays all types of music but prefers ballads and popular numbers. She plays entirely by memory. Her program will be on the air from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow.

Two years ago she was organist and pianist for station WLW, Cincinnati, O., and last summer she played over station WKRC, Dayton, O., giving the same type of program which she will present over KREG tomorrow night. She formerly was on the faculty of the Oberlin Conservatory of Music at Oberlin, O., and also was with the Miami Valley Conservatory of Music at Dayton. She has played with the Keith Orpheum circuit at Dayton. Her most recent western appearance was at station KOMO, Seattle, Wash., where she played four weeks ago.

Tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. is the time. Phone in your requests and listen to a program of piano music by a capable artist who will try to play any selection you may call for.

SERVING 80 THOUSAND CAREFUL SAVERS

1931 WILL REWARD CAREFUL SAVERS

A year ago we said "1930 will reward careful savers" . . . Certainly no year could have put that fact to a more severe test. Financial upsets and disappointments have been numerous and severe, yet our savings customers have reaped their accustomed rewards. Their funds have not depreciated and have yielded during the past year without interruption, interest to the amount of over 3 1/4 million dollars.

To us, too, the year has been one of satisfactory accomplishment. For during 1930 our resources increased from $53,037,628 to $72,444,380, our savings customers increased from 58,000 to 80,000, and Pacific States Savings and Loan Company became the largest building and loan association in the United States.

But above and beyond this, Pacific States Savings again demonstrated in 1930, as in the tempestuous years of 1893, 1907 and 1920, the stoutness of its financial structure and the wisdom of its policies. Our customers have no cause to regret the confidence they imposed in us.

The date changes but the truth remains—"1931, too, will reward careful savers."

Discrimination in selecting an institution to safeguard your funds is an essential to careful saving. We suggest your investigation of our record of service to Californians since the year 1889, and your careful study of our Statement of Condition, voluntarily issued each month. If these meet your approval, we invite your use of our 6% and 5 1/4% facilities for savings. Send for our Statement.

The Public Forum

Communications under this heading must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications express the opinion of those who write them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of The Register.

What will the future of this beautiful land be? Statistics show that the great lake lying under us is being lowered at the rate of ten feet per year. That for the last ten years it has been lowered one hundred feet. That in two years more, at this rate, it will be down to the ocean level. After this we will be pumping salt water if we pump at all.

I ask again, what will be the effect of this condition upon this wonderful and most beautiful country? What will be the effect upon the orange, lemon and walnut groves and many other fruit trees. What will be its effect upon this land of most beautiful flowers and fine homes. The answer, unquestionably must be, that it will paralyze every industry in Southern California worth naming. What business industry would be worth having with these golden harvests of fruit destroyed, and who would want to live here in a country bereft of its water supply?

Am I drawing upon my imagination in this matter or am I sustained in these views by the actual conditions here? What are the unquestionable facts? As I have already stated and which will not be disputed, the water level has gone down 100 feet in the last ten years.

and we are now within 30 feet of the ocean level and in two years more we will be pumping salt water unless some radical change takes place to supply the water that is now being pumped from the almost exhausted reservoir. What promise have we that at the end of this two years that supply of water, which is so extremely necessary to the continued prosperity of this country will be at hand?

I see and hear of no movement on foot by the people to meet and avert this threatened calamity. To rely on possible floods to retrieve us is merely child's play. If we should have extremely heavy rains and flood waters in the next two years, ninety per cent of it would go out into the ocean. We haven't the reservoirs and dams to hold these flood waters at hand, and if the management of affairs, in this all important matter, is to continue in the future as it has dragged along in the past, there is little hope for relief in this direction within the next six or eight years.

The turning of purified sewage water into the underground reservoirs would undoubtedly be of great help but no move is being made in this matter as yet to give relief, and should this course be pursued to give us relief it would take, it seems to me, a number of years to perfect it. If there are any immediate steps that can be taken to bridge over the apparent future troubles then the people should no longer wait but should be up and doing with all their might. We must not let this threatened blight fall upon this beautiful land.

There is a way it seems to me, to make the present water supply last four years instead of two and not seriously or permanently injure the orchards, fruits and beauties of the land, and thus give longer time to prepare for the water supply. We can all get along with half the water we are now using by economy and pains taking without serious or permanent injury to anything. Perhaps the profits from the orchards would not be quite so great and the flowers about your homes be quite so brilliant, but the people had better suffer this light loss now than to lose all in the future. If there are no better ways suggested to meet the coming difficulties then let us all unite in one effort to make present supply last till relief is reached.

Editor Register:—
In your editorial of Jan. 2, 1931, you called the attention of your readers to the total valuation of your building permits in Santa Ana for the year of 1930. It is very gratifying to know that the amount of $2,144,941 was spent for new construction and repair work in Santa Ana alone. But how much of these two millions was paid to local contractors and local labor? Is it not a fact that some of the biggest contracts were let to outside contractors? Is it not a fact that in many, many instances outside labor was employed, when home labor was walking the streets looking for work? And finally is it not a fact that the money paid to these outside men is spent for food and clothing and luxuries with some outside merchants? Now what is partly the result of this? In the free employment office, established by the city of Santa Ana, there are now close to 600 applications for work from men and women who need it; have to have it in order to keep their homes together and keep their self-respect by asking for work and not charity. And as good as no work to be had. There are stenographers, carpenters, plumbers, electricians, nearly every craft and trade represented and a host of people without any trade.

If one figures the average family at 3-1/2 persons there is close to 7 per cent of the population of Santa Ana in need of food or clothing and probably shelter. Of course there are some single men and women included in these 600 applicants but as everybody knows it is the poor man that has the large families of five, six or more children. I do not say that the employment of outside contractors and labor is the only cause responsible for this situation. There are other causes besides. But I do claim that if home contractors and home labor exclusively was employed the situation would not be as serious as it is now; and the result? You that gave a contract to an outsider because he was a few dollars lower than a home contractor and you that employed outside labor because you did not care whether it was home labor or not, or you could get it for lower wages, you will have to dig in again and spend many times as much as you saved on your contract or labor.

To help create work for these 600 men and women something has to be done and done in a hurry and you will be called on to help. Then you say in your editorial, if we are not contented here we would be discontented anywhere, from a business point of view. Granted that we would be discontented anywhere else. But can we be contented from any business point of view, when 600 men and women in Santa Ana alone, not counting the rest of Orange county, who are non-earning, non-productive, in fact they and their dependents, or close to 2000 people, will have to be fed and clothed and housed by the community. If there is no work for them in the near future.

Let us face these facts and try to correct them. We cannot do it by stating now and then that Orange county is the white spot in the state. And that we ought to be thankful that Orange county is not as black as some other spots. Maybe it is not, but right now it is getting darker and darker. Let us all pull together and try to make Orange county the white spot of the state, not only talk about it, when it is not true. You that can do it take the lead and show the others where and how work can be created and given not only to those men and women in Santa Ana but make it a county wide proposition.

And one way of helping out is by having all work done by Orange county contractors and Orange county labor.

It will pay in the end.

STUDENTS TO GIVE CONCERT FRIDAY NIGHT

ANAHEIM, Jan. 6.—A program of interest to music lovers will be given in the Anaheim high school auditorium Friday night at 7:45 o'clock, when the Orange County Junior Symphony orchestra will make its initial bow to Anaheim. Maurice Karp, conductor, has planned a varied program of unusual interest.

The orchestra was organized by Karp last January. Coming to Anaheim from New York, Mr. and Mrs. Karp were engaged by the grammar school board of Anaheim and Orange to develop more musical talent among school children. Seventy-five children who had never had previous musical education began the study of some instrument. At the end of six months training, 45 were eligible for orchestra training and the junior orchestra was organized as a result of such splendid response.

The orchestra is sponsored by the parents of the members. Mrs. Alvin Stanfield was elected president of the Orange group and Mrs. J. P. Hanson, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. E. O. Hiserodt was chosen president of the Anaheim group with C. H. Powell, secretary-treasurer. The concert will be put on by 61 children. The concert is free of charge and the public is cordially invited.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hemstreet entertained with a turkey dinner in their home on New Year's day, when relatives of both Mr. and Mrs. Hemstreet were entertained. Those forming the pleasant social group were Mr. Hemstreet's relatives, Mr. Hemstreet, John and Ethel Hemstreet, of Riverside; Mr. and Mrs. James Hemstreet, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Hemstreet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cawthorn, of Tustin; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Edwards, and sons,

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tylenol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm.

The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tylenol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing, aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear.

Tylenol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at C. S. Kelley Drug Co.—Adv.

May Name Friedman Bear Coach

MICHIGAN STAR WELL LIKED BY PRES. SPROUL

BERKELEY, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Benjamin Friedman, former Michigan all-American quarterback and lately the coach and star of the New York Giants, professional football eleven, may be the next gridiron coach of the University of California, it was intimated today.

Friends of Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the institution, declared he was very favorably impressed with the young man's record. Dr. Sproul confirmed this today when he admitted that Friedman's name had been recently brought to his attention and that he had been highly recommended.

"I will see that Friedman gets every consideration for the California football coaching job," Sproul said. "I can not recommend him because that is a matter for the decision of the student executive committee, and I do not desire to usurp their power, but I believe he would make an admirable coach."

TROJAN STARS TO BE PRESENT AT J. C. DINNER

Departing from the usual custom of having a principal speaker, the annual football banquet at the Santa Ana junior college will be featured by the presence of four football stars from the University of Southern California and some unusual musical numbers. The grid affair will be held Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock in the new dining hall of the First Christian church of Santa Ana.

Program heads of the Brotherhood of Bachelors, men's service club, decided to do away with the speaker when it was found that the Pacific Coast conference forbids any coach from speaking before groups of athletes. Coach Bill Cook of the Dons then succeeded in securing Jim Musick, plunger fullback from Santa Ana, Orville Mohler, ball carrying star and quarterback, Marshall Duffield, first string quarterback and Ralph "Dutch" Wilcox, stellar end, from the Trojan varsity.

Sheldon Hayden, advisor of the Bachelors, will be toastmaster for the evening and is noted for his fund of humor. After an election of a new football captain, short talks will be given by Captain Al Kluthe, the new skipper and Coach Bill Cook. Outside of introductions of the visiting football celebrities, there will be no further talking.

The musical program will consist of double piano numbers by Everett Idor and Bill Motley and trumpet trios by Don Abbott, Bill Motley and Warren Schutz with Everett Idor at the piano. The Sisterhood of Spinsters at the college are in charge of decorations. The banquet is open to the general public and single tickets are 60 cents. The duets may be obtained from any member of the Bachelors or Sisterhood of Spinsters or at Vic Walker's Sporting Goods store at 219 West Fourth street.

MOSS-COVERED RIVALRIES

Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pa., has two old football rivals in Lafayette and Penn State, competition with them dating back to 1883 and 1887 respectively.

Gearhart Is Chairman Of Boxing Body

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 6.—(UP)—B. W. Gearhart, Fresno, state commander of the American Legion, was selected as temporary chairman of the state athletic commission at its first meeting here today.

The three members, Gearhart, Robert Edgren of San Francisco, and Dr. Harry Martin of Los Angeles, appeared before Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan and were sworn into office.

Accompanied by a troop of sports writers from California newspapers, the commissioners then moved to the commission's assembly room in the capitol office building, where they were called to order by Gearhart.

"We expect to carry on in behalf of boxing with a view of putting it on a higher plane," said Gearhart. "We hope to put it on a plane equal to that enjoyed by football, baseball and other high class athletic contests today."

Allen Bixby of Long Beach, head of Governor Young's board of inquiry into the boxing "racket" in California, was requested to report on the final recommendations of the investigators.

Bixby presented the commission with seven volumes of typewritten testimony given before the board of inquiry, and launched into an item-by-item discussion of the board's recommendations.

"The only request we wish to make of this commission," said Bixby, "is that this testimony be kept confidential, and not given to the public. Much of it was given with this understanding, and we do not wish to break faith with the witnesses who agreed to testify."

PICK HAGAN, SMITH TO WIN L. A. OPEN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Denny Shute, winner of the 1930 Los Angeles open golf tournament, will not compete in this year's tournament starting Friday at the Wilshire country club. He has not been playing for several weeks, he said.

But Johnny Farrell, a top runner, will be on hand for match play. He will accompany Gene Sarazen, winner of the Agua Caliente open last year, arriving tomorrow.

Walter Hagen and Macdonald Smith are conceded the best chance to win the $10,000 event this year. Ranked next to them are Tommy Armour, Leo Diegel, Sarazen and Horton Smith.

Hagen, in a practice round yesterday, scored a 68 at Wilshire, while Mac Smith, finishing in a driving rain, had a 71.

Qualifying rounds of play will be started over six courses tomorrow.

Scotland Yard Has Murder Kits Ready

LONDON, Jan. 6.—(UP)—A Scotland Yard detective sent hurriedly out of town to investigate a murder case just shouts to a messenger to bring him a "murder bag" and dashes off.

Although little is known of these "murder bags" outside Scotland Yard, six of them are always kept packed and ready for a call.

Its contents are:

- Two rubber aprons.
- Two pairs of rubber gloves.
- Fingerprint apparatus, including powders and brushes.
- One magnifying glass.
- One electric torch.
- One luminous compass.
- One pair of handkerchiefs.
- Footprint apparatus, including zinc collapsible moulds.
- Two twenty-four-inch steel flexible rules.
- A steel case for stationery, including fingerprint forms.
- Towels, soaps and strong disinfectants.
- The rubber aprons, gloves and disinfectants are designed to protect the detective from germs while conducting his investigations.

SCORE OF 34-19 SHOWS JAYCEES OUTCLASSED

With their fond air-castles completely ruined, the members of the Santa Ana junior college basketball team awoke today with their impressive non-conference winning streak smashed to bits, following the 34 to 19 trouncing the Dons took last night from the 145-pound team from the University of California.

The Santa Anans were so badly outclassed by the Bears that Coach Bill Foote issued orders for the most intensive week of practice of the year to prepare the Jaycees players for the first conference game Saturday. The Long Beach Vikings walked over Woodbury college of Los Angeles 70 to 19 last week and the second team played most of the game, so the Dons are anticipating a warm evening when they go to the seaside floor Saturday.

In the California game, the Santa Ana offense crumbled in the first half and with the exception of one basket by Emmett Seacord, tall center, the Dons were held scoreless. In the meantime, Martin and Nesbitt of the Berkeley team led a riot around the Don basket which netted 20 points.

It is to the credit of the Footmen that a last half rally gained 17 points but the Bears were too far out in front by the time the junior collegians began to play ball. Lorry Walbridge, a forward who was transplanted to a guard position, played the stellar role in this uphill fight by ringing up seven points.

Wear To Resign As Head of Cup Body

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 6.—Joseph W. Wear will resign soon as chairman of the Davis cup committee and will recommend that Fitzgibbon Dixon, non-playing captain of the Davis cup team, be named as his successor, it was reported today.

Wear's resignation has not yet been forwarded to the United States Lawn Tennis association. Pressure of business was given by the popular tennis official as the reason for his reported action.

Farley, chairman of the New York state athletic commission. The referee must be neutral and in no way dependent upon Farley.

The fight must be held under the rules of the National Boxing commission, which does not permit low hitting.

"WILDMAN" AND CORDOZA MEET AT WILMINGTON

Wildman Macias, fistful pride of Orange county and one of the best waterfowl prospects on the Pacific coast will climb into the ring at the Wilmington bowl Wednesday night to engage in the most important battle of his career to date when he squares off against Joe Cordoza, hard hitting Culver City slugger, in the 10-round main event on an all-star card.

The Santa Ana Mexican who pulled on his first pair of Levisons at the Delhi road arena less than three years ago is now at the cross roads of his career and a win over Cordoza Wednesday night will put him in line for a main event at the Olympic club in Los Angeles—the ultimate aim of every southern scrapper.

Hayden Wadhams, matchmaker for the Los Angeles club will sit ringside Wednesday night and should Macias hurdle the veteran Cordoza in good shape he plans on pitting him against Sammy Jackson, Young Corbett or Paulie Walker in the immediate future.

However, Macias who is now in troubled waters, with three Orange county sportsmen fighting over his managerial contract, is no cinch to go into the Olympic club or to get the "duke" over Cordoza.

The Culver City battler is no push-over for any man's fighter and along the waterfront he is a slight favorite to outpunch the chunky Mexican warrior.

Ted Goedders, Santa Ana welterweight, and a younger brother of the well known Joe Goedders, appears in a four-round against Richard Reimann. Mickey Thomas, former Delhi favorite tackles Don Conn, a hard hitting Los Angeles youngster, in another four-rounder.

Other bouts carded are: Solly Smith vs. Curley Muniz, featherweights, four rounds, and Jimmy Alvaris vs. Kid Crow, featherweights, four rounds.

NEWPORT BEACH CITY COUNCIL ASKED TO ALLOW MOTOR BOAT RACES IN HARBOR THIS YEAR

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 6.—proposed to be run will be for world records, it was said, and would give national and international publicity to Newport Bay.

Councilman Ellsworth said that if there would be no "tuning up" before and after the races, and no other disturbance, he believed most of the objections would be met.

Mayor Mark Johnson said that at past meetings of the council many objections to these races had been received and he and Councilman Hilmer suggested laying the matter over for a week.

A representative of the outdoor association said that the American Powerboat association races were scheduled to be awarded at a meeting in New York January 20. He asked for an early decision, but conceded that next Monday would be early enough for action at the New York meeting.

POPULARITY OF WRESTLING FRIGHTENS N. Y. BOXING GAME

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(UP)—Curley counted the $44,000 plus they paid to see London retain his crown.

Rumors now have it that Madison Square Garden will take official recognition of Mons. Curley, the Tex Rickard of the collar and elbow game, and grant him a weekly date for his wrestling shows. Many of the smaller fight clubs have already dropped the fighters from their schedules in favor of wrestlers.

Just why the mat game has leaped into such prominence is hard to explain, inasmuch as the boys are still putting on the same sort of shows that were staged in almost strict privacy a year ago.

CARIDEO TO COACH AT PURDUE IN '31

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Frank Carideo, All-American quarterback of this year's Notre Dame football team, will serve as assistant to Noble Kiser, Purdue head coach, next season.

Carideo announced his acceptance of the Purdue post here last night at an official "welcome home" ceremony tendered him by his fellow townsmen.

STANFORD WINS HARD TILT FROM MONTANA

PALO ALTO, Jan. 6.—Stanford's basketball team defeated Montana 34 to 33 here last night in a game that was only decided in the last few seconds of play. The Montana five were leading 17 to 15 at half time.

Emanuel Trains For Comeback

Los Angeles, Jan. 6.—Armand Emanuel, the San Francisco lawyer who proved to be one of the heavyweight prizes of the coast, went back into training today at Soper's ranch to take another fling at the boxing game. Emanuel has not appeared in the ring since he lost an upset decision to Al Morro at Hollywood last August.

20 SOCIETIES ORGANIZED BY ORANGE PASTOR

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—The fact that he assumed the responsibilities of marriage before he felt the call to enter the ministry did not deter the Rev. James Harvey Brittain, pastor of the Free Methodist church in Orange.

The Rev. Mr. Brittain is the pastor of the Free Methodist church of Orange. He was born in Worth county, Mo., but has been a resident of this state and of the state of Arizona for many years.

He was married July 3, 1881, to Miss Delilah B. White. In November of the same year the young man became converted and shortly afterward felt that he had been definitely called to preach the gospel. Although lacking the educational advantages that he would require to do this work, the Rev. Mr. Brittain at once became a student.

While studying for his life work, he lost no time from the work of the ministry and was constantly engaged in revival work. He passed all his examinations with honor in his regular order and received his first regular conference appointment to a pastoral charge in September, 1886, and is now reaching the meridian of his 45th year of regular conference work. About half of this period of time has been spent in evangelistic work, opening new fields, organizing societies and building churches and parsonages.

One year of the Rev. Mr. Brittain's ministry was spent in the Arizona district as presiding elder. He has organized about 20 new Free Methodist societies, built 10 churches and six parsonages.

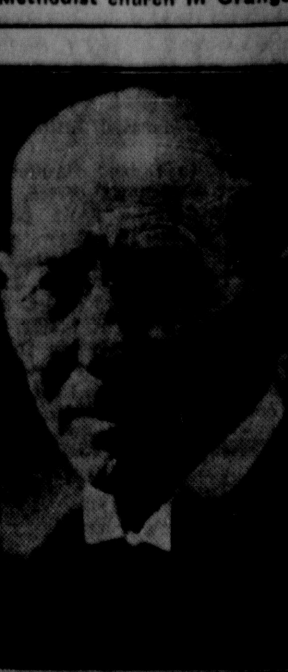

After having spent 23 years in several states in the middle west in evangelistic and ministerial work, the Rev. Mr. Brittain came to Southern California and he has spent the past 11-12 years in this state and Arizona.

The Rev. and Mrs. Brittain expect to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in their parsonage home here at 305 West Almond avenue on July 3 of this year. They have three children living.

The eldest son of the couple, Leslie O., is living at Long Beach, and has been employed in the post office in that city for the past 18 years. The next son, James O. Brittain, is a member of the high school staff of the Fullerton union high school. A daughter, Lila, is the wife of W. S. Cope of the Pasadena high school staff.

NEW TYPE PLANE
BREMEN, Germany. — What is said to be a non-stallable and non-capable plane has been demonstrated here by Heinrich Focke, its inventor. The plane has no stabilizer nor tail, but has three wheels and a small wing and elevator placed in front, giving the front wing a greater angle of attack. The plane will make 90 miles an hour.

PHYSICIAN

DR. GILBERT S. LAMBERT gives untainted praise to new Scientific Discovery.

"I was spending the winter in San Antonio, Texas, when I first heard of Sargon. The treatment appealed to me because of its thorough scientific background. I decided to try it for a very bad form of chronic constipation which I was entirely unable to correct with ordinary laxatives and purgatives used in general practice. "I was also subject to severe bilious attacks. My complexion had become yellow as though I had jaundice. My appetite was below normal. My food did not digest or assimilate, causing gas and indigestion. I was losing weight and strength rapidly. "Three bottles of Sargon's and one bottle of the Pills relieved me entirely of these troubles and I no longer have any liver or biliary symptoms. In fact, I am in better physical tone than in years. "Sargon undoubtedly represents a real advance in the field of medicine."—Dr. Gilbert S. Lambert, San Francisco.

STANFORD, Calif., Dec. 31.—(INS)—The Y. M. I. basketball team of San Francisco defeated Stanford by a score of 25 to 20 here last night.

STUDENTS PLAN TO GIVE 'DEATH TAKES HOLIDAY'

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—"Death Takes a Holiday" probably will be the play presented by the senior class of the Orange union high school on May 1. The play, which has completed a long and successful run in New York City, has never before been given by amateurs, according to F. L. Carrier, who is in charge of the production.

Casting the play is to begin soon. A choice was made between "Death Takes a Holiday" and "The Bat." "Death Takes a Holiday" offers little difficulty in staging, it is said, a problem which would have to be considered in staging "The Bat."

"The Goose Hangs High" has been selected as the junior class play.

Miniature golf courses scattered over the United States represent an investment, exclusive of real estate, of between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 and employ approximately 140,000 persons.

New Officers Of Lodge Installed By Masons Tonight

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—New officers of Orange Grove lodge No. 298, F. and A. M., will be in charge of the meeting of this organization this evening at the Masonic temple. A dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Lucien Flippin, senior warden of the lodge, will give a talk on a recent trip to Mexico.

VOICE CLASS TO RESUME SESSIONS

ORANGE, Jan. 6.—The voice class of the university extension course of the University of Southern California will reconvene this evening at 7:15 o'clock in the home of Phyllis Lucky Keyes, 275 North Harwood street.

The class will be reorganized next week for a new semester's work under the direction of H. Cogswell, chairman of the voice department of the college of music of the university.

Miss Keyes states that new students who have not studied voice before are to be absorbed in the new class as the work has been planned to take care of this contingency.

OFFICERS FOR OLIVE CHURCH ARE SELECTED

OLIVE, Jan. 6.—The annual meeting of St. Paul's Lutheran church was held last night with a good attendance of members. Encouraging reports were given by William E. Paulus, the treasurer. A. W. Schmid, Christmas committee. C. O. Heim, debt collection committee, and August Heilmann, budget committee. These reports showed that St. Paul's has closed one of its most favorable years. The debt has been wiped out, all obligations have been met and the budget for 1931 is almost subscribed for.

Carl Gollin was re-elected president; Herman Meierhoff succeeds Jake Timken as vice president. William E. Paulus continues as treasurer. Herman Lemke and George Bochner were re-elected to the board of elders, while C. O. Heim and Walter Timken succeed Ed Meierhoff and Ed Breije on the board of elders. Robert Lemke and Ed Meierhoff will represent the congregation at the meetings of the Institutional Mission's meetings.

WARNING!!

Do Not Be Misled...by ridiculously large Trade-In Allowances on your old tires, being offered by any tire dealer. Dealers making such offers either increase the list price enough to offset the excessive allowance so you pay the same net price; or Second Line tires are offered at First Line prices, so you get tires of lower quality and do not profit by the trade-in.

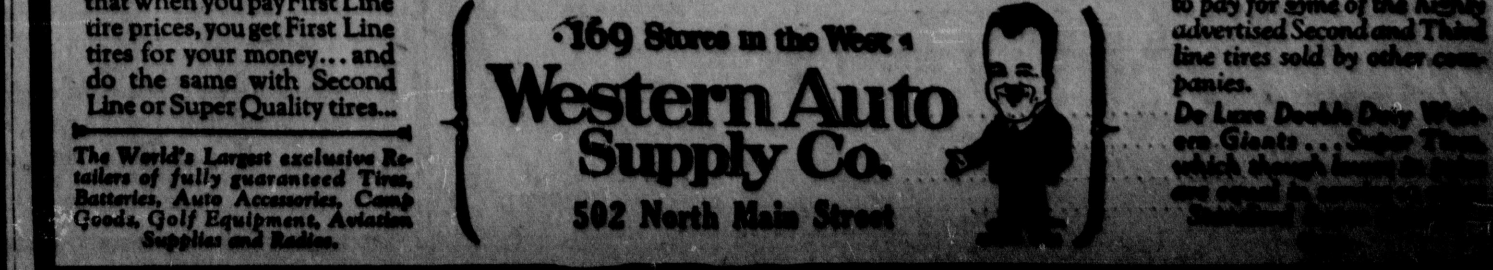

Investigate Before You Buy... Insist that you be shown the true retail price of the tire... Insist on proof from a catalog, or previous advertisements or price lists. Examine the tire closely to make sure of the grade... make sure that when you pay First Line tire prices, you get First Line tires for your money... and do the same with Second Line or Super Quality tires...

EXISTENCE OF GOD TOPIC OF PASTOR'S TALK

"The Kingdom of God" was the subject discussed Sunday night by the Rev. Paul Andres in his lecture at the service of the Christian Science church, having it on the text found in Luke, 17:21. He said in part:

"Since the dawn of human intelligence men and women have recognized the existence of wisdom and power far above their own conscious wisdom and power, and have realized that it would be to their advantage to contact and co-operate with this higher wisdom and power. All systems of religion have sprung from this recognition and realization, and have been devised as means of finding happiness."

"The older forms of religion were intended principally to bring happiness to the individual in a life beyond physical death; and to that end they belittled this present life and taught self-renunciation. Then came Judaism, with its promises of lands, and houses, and gold, and silver, and cattle, and happy family life, to those who would comply with the laws of God—all of these things in addition to happiness in a future life. And at the fruitage and glory of Judaism came Jesus with His Gospel of loving personal service, and His promises of blessed abundance in this world and in the world to come.

"When some of His disciples discussed their temporal needs in His presence, He said to them: 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.' Again He said: 'What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.'"

"If it is true that one who finds the Kingdom of God and does His righteousness thereby insures a supply of the physical things necessary to his comfort and welfare, then seeking the Kingdom of God is the most important work that one can undertake. And if it is true that one can get anything he wants by praying for it in a certain manner, then the hour of prayer is the most important hour of the day."

"Where is the Kingdom of God? It is easy to understand that if one can find and enter the realm in which God of all abundance is the undisputed King, he himself will come into an abundance of all things necessary to his happiness."

"But where is the Kingdom? And how should one go forth in order to find it? Is it a church, or some other organization? Jesus answered this same question very pointedly, very briefly, and with scientific accuracy. Said He: 'The Kingdom of God is within you.'"

"He who would find the Kingdom must go into partnership with the God within, who is also the God without, and the God of all."

100 FOREIGN BORN ATTENDING CLASSES

TALBERT, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Florence Summers, Americanization teacher for the Huntington Beach high school district, who centralizes her efforts in Talbert with a smaller class in Westminster, now has an enrollment of over 100 pupils all told, with classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in Talbert at which there is often an attendance of 20 or 25 at each class. Rug making and fancy work is interesting the pupils whom Mrs. Summers allows to make their own patterns from the material which is furnished.

The Huntington Beach American Legion has offered to assist in building an Americanization school for Mrs. Summers' classes and the high school trustees have offered, free of charge, the high school auditorium for any programs or entertainments which may be arranged as a benefit for this purpose.

Mrs. Summers expects to hold her clinic for children under school age in the league room of the church.

Supervisor To Talk At Cypress Center Session

CYPRESS, Jan. 6.—A meeting of the Cypress Farm center will be held with the usual pot luck supper at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

William Schumacher, county supervisor, will be the principal speaker of the evening. It is announced by C. L. Barnett, president.

Tustin Home Is Scene Of Party

TUSTIN, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Trickey were hosts at a prettily appointed turkey dinner when they entertained a group of friends in their home Sunday evening. The elaborate menu was served at 6 o'clock at the dining table which was centered with a bowl of snapdragons.

During the evening, a sparkling Christmas tree and gift exchange were shared.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Trickey and son, Lloyd, and daughter, Thelma, were Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Leinberger, Mr. and Mrs. Fenlon Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Peroni, of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hannaford, Mrs. Gladys Farquhar, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ogden, of Santa Ana.

P.-T. A. TO MEET
TUSTIN, Jan. 6.—The grammar school P.-T. A. will hold its regular meeting at 2:30 p. m. Thursday in the kindergarten room.

The different rooms of the primary and grammar school buildings will illustrate the modern methods of presenting the elementary subjects. Writing will be demonstrated by Mrs. Morse, reading by Mrs. Newell, arithmetic by Mrs. Hoke, geography by Miss Durbin and history by Miss Catland. Members and friends of the P.-T. A. are urged to attend.

La Habra Church Presents Drama

LA HABRA, Jan. 6.—Another "Happy Hour" service was held Sunday evening at the regular church hour at the Methodist church. A drama, "Golden Memories," was presented.

Members of the cast were Gordon Cameron, Christian friend, A. J. Crockerly, business man; the Rev. Daniel Dundas, old age spirit; Edith McClure, spirit of forgotten faith; Jane Douth, spirit of pleasure; Winifred Sutton, spirit of opportunities lost; Cyrus Morris, spirit of youth and energy. Following the drama the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Dundas, spoke on the tenth chapter of Mark.

M. J. Pickering, organist, presented the prelude and accompanied at the piano for a musical reading given by his wife, Mrs. M. J. Pickering, called "Backward, Turn Backward."

Skeets Gallagher, Paramount comedian, studied to be both a civil engineer and a lawyer before deciding upon a stage career.

FEATHERS IN CAR LEAD TO ARRESTS

Loose feathers on the floor of an automobile, stopped by members of the Orange county fruit patrol last night, led to the arrest of five persons, three juveniles and two youths 20 years old, all of whom were lodged in the county jail on charges of petty theft.

The older youths were Lawrence Lighthall, of Durant street, Santa Ana, and Herman Milbrat, of Anaheim.

According to Robert Sandon, of the district attorney's office, who has charge of the fruit patrol, the boys confessed after questioning that they stole 14 chickens from the ranch of Herman Hess, on Easter avenue, last night, selling them for a total of $14.98, and divided the money between them.

The chickens were reported to have been sold to the Post Produce company, at Orange, San-

COACHELLA VALLEY VISITORS RETURN

Mrs. F. W. Weissman and Miss Helen Weissman took advantage of the holiday vacation to take a short trip into Coachella valley. The first night was spent at the San Geronimo Inn at Banning. From there they motored to Palm Springs.

The following two days were spent at Indio, from where they drove to various points of interest during the day. They found "The Romance of the Date," told by Mr. Shields, one of the growers, most interesting. They enjoyed their visit to Ellis Jayne's ranch near Mecca. Late Friday they returned to Riverside, spent the evening and night there, and returned to Santa Ana early Saturday morning.

don reported. The other three youths arrested all live near Anaheim.

Hard, Red, Large Pimples Covered Face. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was covered with pimples and blackheads, causing much restless sleep from the itching and burning of my skin. The pimples were hard, red and large, and festered. I had the trouble for two years. I tried different ointments on my face but none of them seemed to help me. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. The results were amazing and relieved the itching and burning pain. I purchased more and in two months I was completely healed." Orange County Settles Tax Account With State

OVER $24,000 TURNED OVER BY TREASURER

Orange county has just completed settling its accounts with the state of California, according to an announcement by State Controller Ray L. Riley.

The total amount turned over to the state by the county's treasurer was $24,312.13, representing six months' collections, most of which was inheritance taxes.

During the period covered by the settlement, the 53 counties of California collected a grand total of $10,421,472.32, the largest sum turned over to the state in many years.

The large increase in inheritance tax collections is explained by the fact that a number of wealthy persons died in California last year. This state's extremely low inheritance tax rate has been the means of inducing many wealthy persons to take up residence in California.

The inheritance tax paid by Los Angeles county in the estate of the late William G. Kerckhoff was $1,757,718.74, and represented the largest single item.

MEXICAN TOUR OUTLINED FOR B. & P. W. CLUB

Enjoying by proxy the varied experiences which a group of Orange county residents shared recently when they took a good trip through Mexico, Business and Professional Women's club members yesterday heard Mrs. M. M. Holmes describe the journey.

Introduced by Miss Doris Robbins, January program chairman, Mrs. Holmes approached her subject chronologically, beginning with the actual crossing of the border at Nogales where she was impressed with the difference between the two countries. For the American streets of the little border town were well kept and well paved, while the Mexican side was quite the opposite, and every street swarming with beggars.

In Hermosillo she met Miss Virginia Powell, daughter of Mrs. Sallie Powell, Congregational church secretary. Miss Virginia is teaching in Institute Corona, a school supported by the local church.

The travelers in Mexico City were greeted by Governor Rubio, and shown over the palace of Chapultepec even into the governor's own private suite of rooms. The speaker told the legend of the founding of Mexico City whose site was selected by chance, as it was the spot where was seen the famous eagle with a serpent in its talons. This was directly over a lake bed, but the city was built there just the same, resulting in a malarial and extremely damp climate, even though the lake has been drained.

Building foundations are so insecure that the new national opera house, costing a fabulous sum, already has sunk six feet, although it is not yet completed. A few members of the party were admitted to the interior of this building, seeing among other things, the remarkable million-dollar curtain, ordered from Tiffany's.

In concluding her talk, Mrs. Holmes showed many interesting pictures together with examples of Mexican basketry and pottery.

Mrs. Marshall Northcross, club president, announced the next meeting of the book review section with Mrs. John Tessmann, for January 16, with Mrs. Leslie Eckel, Mrs. Mildred Reinhardt, Miss Mabel Wiseman and Mrs. N. E. Mayhill as the social committee. Other announcements included the date of the evening meeting for January 19 in the Y. W. rooms. Mrs. Morgan, lyric baritone of Long Beach, will be guest artist. Miss Robbins, Miss Helene Kubitz, Mrs. Mabel Rockwell Webster and Miss Lee Patton, will be hostesses.

The district board meeting will be held January 10, in Glendale Masonic temple, with tea from 4 to 6 p. m.; board meeting from 6 to 8 p. m., with Donald B. McMillan, Arctic explorer, as speaker.

Retail Price Of Milk Topic For Producers' Meet

Discussion of the retail price of milk is to feature a meeting of the Orange County Milk Distributors association which will be held at the Farm Bureau offices at 7:30 p. m. today. The price is being considered after a cut of 10 cents a pound in butterfat that was made to producers by the surplus milk plant.

The present retail price of milk is 14 cents, one cent having been lopped off the standard price of 15 cents last November.

DISCUSS FINAL PLANS FOR BIG GRID BANQUET

Discussing final plans for the football banquet to be held Thursday night at the First Christian church, members of the Brotherhood of Bachelors of the Santa Ana junior college met last night at the home of Jac Crawford, 938 North Grand avenue.

The Bachelors are sponsoring the grid affair, in conjunction with the Sisterhood of Spinsters. The ticket sale is in charge of both service clubs. The Bachelors are handling the program and the Spinsters are in charge of the decorations. The banquet is to be staged in the new dining hall of the church and will begin at 8:30 p. m.

Plans also were formulated for the Bachelors' ball, which will be held some time in February at the Lake Norconian club near Riverside. For a week preceding the event, the Bachelors take an active part in all activities of the school, putting out a special edition of the school paper, presenting an assembly and other events.

Committees appointed for the ball were as follows: Posters, George Griffith; favors and programs, John "Ski" Dunlap and Ervin Watkins; orchestra, Everett Idler and Wayne Plinn; and advertising, Tom Cone.

The first of the meeting last night was taken up with a humorous trial to sentence various members for trivial offenses. All formalities of a court were carried out, including the judge, jury, attorneys and witnesses.

BREAKFASTERS TO MEET WITH NEW OFFICERS

The first program of the Breakfast club under the direction of its new officers and committees will be held at Ketter's cafe next Thursday morning. Dr. E. D. Kilbourne, the new president, will preside at the meeting, and the program will be in charge of the general program committee, E. W. Cochems and Eugene Kahen.

Floyd E. Stewart, new member of the club, who has developed considerable skill as a Houdini and master of magic, will give a 20-minute program, including card tricks, the magic rug from Bagdad, the human salamander in flames of death, a trick with important emblems and a sketch entitled "Looking Backward," in which the Breakfasters will be portrayed.

Other numbers on the program will include vaudeville selections with Walt Lively in comic songs and buck and wing dances, and piano numbers by Art Cannon, official pianist of the club. Installation of officers will be in charge of Kahen.

Olive Group To Discuss Routing Of Canyon Road

Spirited discussion is expected to be raised at a meeting of the Olive Improvement association tonight in regard to the proposed re-routing of the Santa Ana canyon road to the beaches through hill above Olive, as called for in the proposal of the state highway department.

This meeting is to be held in the Olive dance hall at 7:30 p. m. Other projects to be discussed are the formation of a fire district and location of water lines.

The new routing of the road, which is to be a part of the secondary state highway under a bill drafted by State Senator Nels T. Edwards, connects with Tustin avenue east of Orange, thus missing Olive, Orange and Santa Ana.

HUGE INCREASE IN COAST ROAD USE PREDICTED

When the Coast highway through Huntington Beach is widened, which will be during the present winter and spring, traffic probably will be doubled, according to the belief of the state highway commission, expressed by S. V. Cortelyou, engineer of the state highway department. Mayor Bowen, of Huntington Beach, at the meeting of the city council held Monday night, stated that Cortelyou had conferred with the city engineer and the mayor there Monday afternoon. During the conference Cortelyou said the highway department was getting ready to take care of a vastly increased traffic over the 50-foot highway this coming summer, Bowen stated.

With this idea in view, the city officials were asked to close the deal immediately for additional right-of-way over the Mills Land and Water company property and to stand a share of the cost of widening the bottlenecks on the highway at each entrance of the city.

The council Monday night voted to stand a portion of the construction cost, amounting to $20,000. The state will pay $40,000 and the county will be asked to pay $20,000. The total cost will be $80,000. The city already has spent over $300,000 widening the highway from First to Twenty-second street through the city. The increased traffic which necessitates full widening of the highway is through traffic developed outside this city and hence the state and county will help with the construction cost.

Mills Land and Water company will be paid $5000 for the additional right of way, and all construction work will be completed before the summer traffic starts.

Officers of the county organization, who will discuss the program of the Farm bureau. There also will be entertainment features and refreshments.

S. A. COLLEGE SENDS 21 MEN TO ASILOMAR

With 21 delegates, the second largest group in the convention of 270 Y.M.C.A. workers of the Pacific coast, the Santa Ana junior college "Y" was well represented at the seventeenth annual Astorian Y.M.C.A. conference which met December 28 to January 3.

The Dons were exceeded in number only by the University of California, which had 27 members, and the local group took the honors for junior colleges. There are 23 college institutions represented at the conference, which had as its theme, "Personality in The Machine Age."

Besides having such a large group in attendance, the Santa Anans were quite important in the conference program. Dean McKee Flisk, who headed the Dons, was a leader and presided at many sessions. The highest honor came to Robert Brown, of Santa Ana, who was elected as the only junior college representative on the executive board of the student field council.

Among the nationally known lecturers and leaders who took prominent parts in the meetings were Dr. Allen Hunter, from Pasadena; Kirby Page, nationally known pacifist; "Dad" Elliott, from Chicago university; Dr. George T. Tolson, of the Pacific School of Religion, and Charles Crumey, of San Jose.

The 21 who attended from Santa Ana were Paul Allen, Roy Arms, Dana Beal, Eldon Bragg, Robert Brown, Virgil Brown, Thomas Clark, Jac Crawford, McKee Flisk, John S. Gordon, Charlie Greenleaf, Glenn Hardin, Bruce Harding, Bill Reinhardt, Cardwell Orlesby, Leonard C. Morris, Chester B. Smith, Calvin B. Stillwell, Donald R. Schurr, Lawson W. Watkins and Robert Williams.

PIER PILINGS PLACED. BEACH COUNCIL TOLD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6. All pilings for the new municipal pier have been set it was announced at the meeting of the city council last night in a report from the city engineer, Merwin Rosson. Rosson stated that the pier probably would be completed about April 1. It required 108 concrete pilings. There will be 15 wooden pilings for the boat landing.

Mayor Bowen asked Councilman Stevens, chairman of the pier committee, to have Ben Dulaney, who wanted to get a franchise for a cafe on the pier, and Harvey Walker, who wanted a franchise for his fish tackle stand, to submit their plans and request for franchise in detail at the next meeting of the council.

The last concrete piling was hauled to the end of the pier and jettied into bed rock on sea bottom Monday afternoon. Fishermen who have watched each foot of the pier work, were on hand to rejoice over the landing of the piling safely on sea bottom, 600 feet farther out at sea than the end of the old pier. The pier repair and extension job is a municipal project that the city is spending $122,000 to complete. There will be a boat landing and a beautiful glass enclosed sun room at the pier's end.

DELEGATES TO RIVER MEETING ARE APPOINTED

Council John L. McBride and City Engineer Clyde Jenken were appointed at the city council meeting last night to represent the city of Santa Ana at a conference to be held on January 12 at Riverside at which plans for distribution of water from the Colorado river will be discussed. The conference will be held under the auspices of the Redlands Chamber of Commerce and attendance is limited to representatives of cities and irrigation districts located in the Santa Ana river basin.

Though several attorneys, as well as citizens, were on hand to register protests against the proposed construction of a subway at the railroad tracks on East Fourth street, a hearing on the same was continued for two weeks.

City Clerk Ed Vegely was instructed by the council to notify all patriotic and fraternal organizations that hereafter no free license will be issued to any circus or other entertainment concern, though its appearance here may be sponsored by a fraternal society. It was brought out that several amusement concerns had made a practice to tie up with fraternal organizations in order to evade the required amusement tax.

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO SKATE TONIGHT

Ice skaters at the Santa Ana junior college will adjourn in a body to a Los Angeles skating rink tonight to join members of the Press club in the first college social event of the year.

Between 30 and 40 skaters will help put over a college night program, which will include delegations from U. S. C., U. C. L. A., Pasadena junior college and Los Angeles junior college.

Arrangements for the party are in charge of John "Ski" Dunlap, president of the Press club, and Ted Roth, chairman of the program committee. Edna M. Flowers, faculty advisor of the club, also will make the trip. The excursion is not being limited to the journalists but includes all students of the college who want to go.

RUGS DISPLAYED AT HORTON STORE

A window display that is informative and educational is found this week in one of the Main street windows of Horton's Furniture store, Main at Sixth street. It is a huge revolving mechanism that unrolls and displays six Oriental patterns in Gulistan de Luxe rugs.

The rugs are fastened in tandem and present a continuous view of some fine old Sarouk and Isfahan designs, all of them being museum patterns. This mechanism is adding much interest to the pastime of "window shopping," since it solves the problem of viewing several different patterns of these new rugs in a moment or two.

Horton's offers the information that Gulistan de Luxe rugs are made by Karagheuslan, the largest manufacturer and importer of Oriental rugs in the world. Although these are American-made Oriental rugs, they are made of the same wools, and the same dyes are used, that are found in imported Orientals, and the fine pile-deep sheen of Orientals is added to the Gulistan in the same plant that always has produced our finest Oriental rugs.

BIG ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN STARTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The American Tobacco company and its subsidiary, the American Cigar company, open the new year by placing in the newspapers of the country the largest Lucky Strike advertising campaign and the largest Creme advertising campaign in the history of either company. Agents are today forwarding to newspapers orders for these campaigns.

"The growth in the sale of Luck Strike and Creme, unprecedented in the tobacco industry, has been made possible by the power of newspaper advertising," George Hill, president of the American Tobacco company, wired. "We are again in 1931 increasing our newspaper advertising expenditure because we believe that this year, like 1930, will be a year of bigger business with us."

WATER TO BE DISCUSSED BY FARM CENTER

Water conservation will be stressed at a meeting of the Garden Grove Farm center which is to be held at the Woman's clubhouse at 7:30 p. m., next Thursday. Speakers will be H. C. Head, who is regarded as one of the leading water attorneys in Southern California, and W. W. Hoy, engineer.

"The question of water conservation is one of greatest importance to us in Orange county," R. A. Chaffee, president of the Garden Grove center, said in connection with announcing the meeting. "We have heard much concerning it, but new phases of the question are constantly arising. Outsiders are continually coming in and trying to take our water from us. If we do not look out for ourselves, nobody else will. It is quite necessary that we should hear all we can about these issues, as the flood control engineers will report soon."

Other speakers on the program are J. W. Crill and R. D. Flaherty.

PREPAREDNESS?

LONDON—Does England see another war in the offing? Regardless, two new rifles have been developed in the country which are causing no little comment. One is the Vickers-Berthier machine rifle which can be changed from an automatic weapon to a single shot rifle. Its automatic rate is 300 shots a minute. The single shot rate is 90 a minute. The second rifle is the Pedersen self-loader. It is capable of 50 aimed shots a minute, does not overheat, and has little recoil.

Nogodola Booked At County Jail

Charged with suspicion of forgery, Daniel Nogodola, 35, of Garden Grove, was booked at the county jail last night by Jess Buckles, deputy sheriff.

His arrest followed an investigation by the sheriff's office after a complaint had been filed by the Lamb Service station of Garden Grove to the effect that Nogodola had cashed a check at the station for $18 several days ago.

Nogodola will be given a hearing in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court probably late this afternoon.

Capable Officers Will Conclude Terms at Annual Banquet

Two years of varied activities and achievements under the leadership of Mrs. C. F. Smith will be concluded Monday evening when the annual Y.W.C.A. membership dinner will be held at 8:30 o'clock in the Y.W. rooms. This will be the second such banquet to be held in the handsome new quarters which have been furnished and financed through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Smith and her co-workers.

The affair will be in charge of the membership committee, headed by Mrs. Earl Morris, and their services for this annual affair will bring to a close this year's work. During this term of office, the group has done much to increase the membership of the association. In order that members might become better acquainted with each other, monthly luncheons have been held. Invitations have been issued for the banquet, and it is expected that most of the members will be interested in attending. The dinner will be served by Girl Reserves of the Y.W.C.A., who avail themselves of this opportunity to earn funds with which they send delegates to the summer camp at Asilomar, Mrs. Cassius Paul is chairman. Business Girls of the Y.W. will have charge of the program, with Mrs. Ernest Cleverdon of Pomona college as the speaker of the evening.

Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated In Happy Fashion

Memories of their wedding day were happily recalled Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Theo. A. Winbiger, 207 East Ninth street, when they were complimented at an intimate, delightful dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Birch in South Pasadena.

At the wedding a number of years ago of Theo. A. Winbiger and Miss Maude Mills, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Mills of this city, Mrs. Birch, then Miss Estelle Conaway, was maid of honor, while Elmer Barr Burns of this city, served Mr. Winbiger as best man. In the intervening years the same close friendship has been maintained, and many happy celebrations of the wedding anniversary have been held. Frequently Mr. and Mrs. Winbiger have been hosts, while at intervals Mr. and Mrs. Burns have entertained, or Mr. and Mrs. Birch.

At the latest anniversary, the sextet of old-time friends shared an unusually happy evening, with an elaborate dinner served in the home of the hosts, one of much charm and distinction even in Pasadena, that city of beautiful homes. The evening was devoted to reminiscences of the days when all were young people together here in Santa Ana, and before Mr. Birch became a leading railroad magnate of the United States.

Writing Club Members Share Entertaining Evening

It seemed that the elements themselves conspired to make last night's meeting of Quill Pen club an unusually enjoyable one, and the charm of Mrs. R. H. Winchester's home at 921 South Ross street, was doubly pleasant in contrast with the stormy skies. Club members were in the right mood to listen to manuscripts, and analyze each one in friendly spirit, offering detailed and constructive criticism, and discussing various phases of writing.

Mrs. Marshall Harnois as president, conducted the meeting, and opened the program by reading an article from a current magazine, illustrative of the modernistic trend of present-day fiction. Mrs. Blanche Brown's short story, "The Understudy," was heard with much interest, as were two stories in series which Mrs. Winchester is writing. These were "The Next Door Neighbor" and "The Coffee Service," with the plots revolving about characters who had been introduced to the club members by their creator at an earlier meeting.

During the discussion of "bookish" matters which followed the program, Mrs. Winchester provided the final delightful touch of hospitality by serving crisp little cheese biscuits with a moulded salad, assisted by her husband's mother, Mrs. J. F. Winchester, who was a guest of the evening.

Mrs. Ray Brown and Mrs. John Newcomer also shared the evening's pleasures with Quill Pen members. Mrs. Winchester, the hostess, Mrs. Harnois, Mrs. Maude Goff, Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Mrs. Frank W. and Mrs. Herman Reuter.

The next meeting in two weeks will be with Mrs. Marsh Adams, 15 South Birch street, with Mrs. R. A. Cushman, Mrs. J. D. Campbell and Miss Pearl Campbell to read manuscripts.

Silver Wedding Day Is Incentive For Two Pretty Parties

In less than two months the Frank Cannon home at 615 South Birch street has been the setting for two wedding anniversaries, a golden and a silver, and it was only the past week that the latter was observed by Mr. and Mrs. Cannon, who were married January 2, 1906, in Secor, Ill. The celebration was held November 18 in honor of the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. Cannon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cannon, 621 South Ross street.

Mr. and Mrs. Cannon held the silver anniversary observance on two different evenings, and on each occasion the home was decked with pastel-tinted sweet peas. An appropriate motif was carried out during the refreshment hours when linen-spread tables were centered with silver bells in harmony with the silver candlesticks in which hand-decorated candles were used. Angel food and devil's food cakes were served with pineapple sundae and coffee.

Mrs. Cannon appeared as the bride of 25 years ago, for she donned the quintessentially handsome gown of heavy white silk and handsome lace, creamy with the passing years, which she had worn on that happy occasion.

Calumpit Officers Are Honored at Party By Retiring Leader

Coming as the finale of a successful and pleasant year's activities in Calumpit auxiliary, U. S. W. V. was the enjoyable party with which the retiring president, Mrs. Elva Hunt, complimented her officers and past presidents of the organization on Saturday afternoon, when she entertained in the Sherman Glass home, Garden Grove.

Red, yellow and white, Calumpit auxiliary colors, were to be seen in the varied flowers which lent their charm to the home, forming a fragrant and vivid background for the card tables arranged for progressive bunks. Good fortune befell Mrs. Howard Wassum in the contest, and she was awarded first prize, with second prize going to Mrs. Charles Dixon and consolation to Mrs. Elvira Kurlis.

With the conclusion of the games, Mrs. Hunt, with the assistance of her daughter, Miss Twila Hunt, and of Mrs. Glaze, spread the small tables with pretty linens and flowers for serving an appetizing tea menu in two courses.

An unexpected feature of the afternoon came in the presentation to the hostess and retiring president, of a handsome beaded bag, the gift of her sister officers. Mrs. Elisabeth Erickson, to be installed tonight as her successor, made the presentation. Mrs. Hunt in turn, presented a pretty hostess gift to Mrs. Glaze.

Sharing the friendly spirit of the afternoon with Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Glaze, were Mesdames Elisabeth Erickson, Eleanor Shaw, Nannie Reed, Bertha Dixon, Luella Randall, Marie Lindquist, Ruth Hess, Elvira Kurlis, Bertha Holmer, Laura Dufek, Lillian Hubbard, Cora Graham, Dena Isbell, Cio Shewalter, Myrtle Watlie, Mabel Bands, Maude Brown and Emma King Wassum.

Co-Hostesses Give Birthday Party For Children

Mrs. Dennis J. Keen and Mrs. Jess E. Miller were co-hostesses Saturday afternoon when they entertained in their home at 1030 and 1032 North Van Ness avenue, in observance of the fifth birthday of Betty Lou Keen and third birthday of Joe Ann Miller.

The little guests were received in the Miller home where a number of games, including such childhood favorites as drop the handkerchief, button button, and hunt the spool, were played. In an amusing contest Maryland Klants and Vernon Branson won first prizes.

To conclude the afternoon, the children were given gaily decked paper caps and horns, and were escorted to the Keen home where a tempting refreshment course was served. Pink and white streamers led from the chandelier to each corner of the table, and were in harmony with two large cakes bearing pink candles. Colored napkins completed the pretty effect.

The little guests had a special menu of chicken sandwiches, cake, ice cream cones and candy, while mothers present were served hot chocolate in addition to the other delicacies. The little Misses Betty Lou and Joe Ann received some lovely gifts.

Children present, other than Betty Lou and Joe Ann, were Georgia Mallars, Carol McCollum, Margaret Ann Sweetberg, Louise Thayer, of Long Beach; Maryland Klants, Rosemary Atchley of Orange; Gaynell Miller and Billie Livingston, Bobbie and Richard Atchley of Orange; Bobbie and Jimmie Luth, Anaheim, and Dickie Cline and Vernon Branson.

Sharing the children's pleasure in the party were Mesdames Livingston, Cline, Baker, Luth, Atchley, Miss Bobbie Briley of Long Beach, and the hostesses, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Keen.

Hearth Fires Lighted With Ceremony In New Residence

Reserving for a later date the official house-warming, Mrs. E. W. Spruance "lighted the hearth fire" in her new home on North Ross street Saturday night. A small group of intimate friends and Mrs. William E. Otis, mother of the hostess, gathered about the hearth to mingle their warm wishes for the happiness of the household as the little daughter, Eloise, applied the spark to the logs.

The traditional loaf of bread placed on the hearth, will ward off want and trouble through all the coming years.

Mrs. Helne Lowry of San Pedro sang two selections including "Oh Heart of Mine," and Mrs. M. B. Wellington read several suitable selections on home. The first was the hostess' own poem inspired by the departure of the workman and the thought that the next step in the building of her home would be opening the door to friends.

One page of a handsome guest book, that reserved for the friends at the hearth-lighting ceremony, was filled with the names of those present. They included Mr. and Mrs. William E. Otis, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Wellington, Dr. and Mrs. Helne Lowry, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Hammond, Mrs. Elsie Daley, Miss Norma Wingood, and Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King.

Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. Mozley

It was in the Don Mozley home at 1017 Spurgeon street that members of a little desert bridge club last night met for their first session since the holidays. Bright-hued poinsettias were used in the living room, where a delectable dessert was served early in the evening.

In the bridge games, Mrs. J. F. Lewis of Orange, scored high. Mrs. J. D. Vanarsdale of Kansas City was a special guest of the evening. Members present, other than Mrs. Mozley, were Mesdames Herbert Alteman, J. F. Lewis, Clarence Laxton, R. C. Edwards, Jesse Elliott and D. A. Liggett.

Guests Entertained At Enjoyable Dinner

A charmingly appointed 1 o'clock dinner was held yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jamieson on South Main street, when a group of relatives shared the home's hospitality.

Pink sweet peas center the table, and harmonized prettily with the slender tapers and nut cups of the same hue. Sweet peas were on each place card, and the salads served carried out the chosen color theme of pink and green. Roast chicken and turkey and all the tempting accessories were served.

Place cards at dinner were written for Mr. and Mrs. William Hunton and son Merion and daughter Aura Dall, Mrs. E. E. Jamieson, Miss Esther Jamieson, Ted Brown, Merle Wolverson, Mrs. Sam Ward and daughter Alice; Mr. and Mrs. N. Hughes and daughter Ethel, and Tom Hogland, all of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cathcart and son Verne of Los Angeles; Mrs. Emma Hunton, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tolle and son David, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Walker and son Denn, all of Anaheim, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jamieson and daughters, Margaret and Thelma.

Chicago Visitor Has Happy Birthday In Daughter's Home

Bringing together a group of old-time Chicago friends, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Erickson yesterday entertained in their home at 1041 West Sixth street, complimenting the 72nd birthday anniversary of Mrs. Erickson's father, F. J. Bippus. He and Mrs. Bippus, who are of Chicago, are spending the winter in this city.

Mr. Bippus was truly surprised when the guests arrived, for the plotting hostess kept him interested in a croquet game in the back yard until all was in readiness for his appearance. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon, with fragrant narcissus blossoms and ferns forming a background for the affair. A special feature of the dessert course was a large chocolate birthday cake decorated in white.

An interesting social time followed, and early in the evening another delectable menu was served. Mr. Bippus received many gifts.

Guests present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Erickson, and her daughter, Miss Verena Bailey, were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sunde of Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. William Gilmore and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gilmore, of Huntington Park, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bolger of Santa Monica; Mrs. George Johnston and Charles Furlong of Downing, and Mr. and Mrs. Bippus.

Dinner Party Honors Birthday Celebrant And Newlyweds

An enjoyable dinner party of recent date, at which Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Epps were hosts in their home on Brookhurst road, was planned as a special courtesy to Mrs. Epps' mother, Mrs. Rachel Campbell of Anaheim, whose eighty-first birthday anniversary occurred Monday, January 5, and to Mr. and Mrs. William Hubert Stidham of Santa Ana, whose wedding was a quiet affair of Friday, December 26.

Flowers in a charming arrangement of pink and lavender tints, were used to adorn the table where the delicious roast turkey dinner was served, but in the remainder of the home, scarlet poinsettias were used in deference to the Yuletide wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Stidham.

Sharing the enjoyable day with the hosts and their family, Paul, Betty and Mary Epps, and their honor guests, Mrs. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Stidham, were Jefferson, Jack and Bob Stidham, Santa Ana; Mrs. Ula Reed and children, Charles, Doris and Billy, Woodrow Stidham, Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell and daughter, Helen, Alamitos; George Campbell of Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. James Waiter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Corcoran and son Hal, and Lennie Frieden, Orange.

Mrs. Stidham and Miss Christine Stevens, a niece of Mrs. Epps, who has made her home with the family since the death of her own parents when she was a small child. The wedding was a very quiet event of the day after Christmas, the young people going to Costa Mesa, where an old family friend, the Rev. Oscar Finch of Grand Rapids, Mich., was spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Finch.

Mr. Stidham's parents reside in the south. He is in the fumigating business, and he and his bride are living on Bush street.

Earthquake Bridge Is Entertainment For Dinner Guests

With the new year come numerous gay parties, and of these none has been more cleverly worked out than that of last evening when Miss Muriel Kuhl, noble grand of Torrance Rebekah lodge, entertained members of her staff in her home at 806 Garfield street. Invitations introduced the affair as an earthquake bridge, and many were the shocks which guests received during the evening.

A unique "backward" motif was introduced at an early hour when guests found their places at the table by cards reversing the letters in their names. A sumptuous menu was served in harmony with the plan of the evening, with the dessert coming at the first of the menu and the bouillon course last. Crackers and cheese, ice-cream and cake, and salad were served as the first part of the dinner, preceding the meat course which included, peas, beets and baked potatoes.

Table decorations featured the lodge colors, green and pink, and included a miniature intertwined with creamy lilies. Overhead was a silver moon and seven stars, shining on raven-haired Rebekah robed in white satin, who stood nearby. The soft glow of slender pink tapers added much to the attractive scene.

With the conclusion of the dinner hour guests pulled the ribbon streamers which led from the wall to the fluffily-gowned ladies at each place, and found directions for stunts awaiting them.

Earthquake bridge followed, and when scores were added on the silver star-shaped tables displaying a rose bluing, the final "shock" of the evening came, for each guest was presented with a lovely gift.

Miss Kuhl was assisted in hostess duties by her sister, Miss Margaret Kuhl.

Those present, other than Miss Kuhl were Mesdames Edna Kinsella, Fannie M. Lacy, Maude Swarthout, Lucille Rathbone, Ethel Brown, Janice Turner, Emma Cochran, Edna Allen, Elvane Chandler, Lora Perkins, Elmore Pickel, Laura Tramel, Carrie Tope, Louise McCain, Ada Spencer and Miss Mina Hartin.

Four Generations Are Represented at Dinner Party

One of the happiest of family parties was that shared by four generations of relatives when Mr. and Mrs. James Clark were hosts Sunday at a handsomely appointed one o'clock dinner in their home at 214 East Myrtle street.

Baskets of cotoneaster and poinsettias decorated the home, while the joys of the recent holiday season were suggested by the small Christmas tree centering the dining room table. Red tapers and nut cups completed the cheery effect, and a toothsome roast turkey and its accompanying delicacies were served.

The whole affair was eloquent of the holidays, for the family Christmas tree remained in the living room as the center of interest for the afternoon, and it was speedily discovered that it bore a gift for each guest present.

The sole regret of the day was the fact that Mrs. George Helmer, Santa Monica, great-grandmother in the family group, was ill and unable to be present. The four generations sharing the pleasant occasion, were represented by Mrs. Harriett Jones of Bell, great-grandmother; Mrs. James Clark, grandmother; Mrs. Joseph Ryan, mother, and her son, Joseph Ryan, Jr. Other relatives present were James Clark, the host, Joseph Ryan, Ed and Fred Jones, of Bell, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Falls and son, Melvin, of San Pedro.

Recipe for White Fruit Cake

I forgot to mention yesterday that the butter used in the dark fruit cake recipe could be cut down by using half butter and half vegetable shortening. Christie is one of those "aged-in-the-wood" kind of cooks who regards the use of anything but butter for cake shortening with lofty scorn, but it can be done, nevertheless. Today, I am giving the recipe for—

CHRISTIE'S WHITE FRUIT CAKE

1-2 cup butter
1 cup white sugar
1-2 cup sweet milk
1 cup cake flour
3 eggs, whites beaten separately
1 pound bleached suet raisins
1 pound shredded coconut
1-4 pound candied citron
1-2 pound blanched almonds
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon each of lemon and almond extracts

Cream the butter and sugar to the soft fluffy stage, add the beaten egg yolks and whip. Sift flour and baking powder three times and add to mixture alternately with the half cup of milk. Whip in the stiffly beaten egg whites, then the flavoring extracts, and last of all work in the flour, fruit, coarsely chopped almonds, shredded citron, cherries used whole, and the pound of coconut. Bake 2 1-2 hours in a paper-lined tin, oven very slow. The recipe makes one large round cake or two small loaf cakes.

Because coconut soon turns rancid this cake should not be kept longer than two weeks. The sample I baked didn't live two minutes after it was out of the oven!

TODAY'S RECIPE

Baked Stuffed Onions

(For Six)

6 Bermuda onions
1 can deviled ham
1 green pepper
1 cup fine toasted crumbs
1-2 cup rich top milk
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter

Onions cooked in this fashion are properly a main dish. I suggest serving them as part of a good vegetable plate of baked squash...creamed spinach or cabbage...battered beets. Serve with the plate a fruit salad and baked custard for dessert.

Peel the onions, cut a slice off the top and parboil for 30 minutes. Drain. When cool enough to handle chop the onion centers fine, season with butter, salt and pepper and mash with the deviled ham (or other minced meat). Combine with the breadcrumb, make moist with the milk, well scalded and mix through the filling the green pepper cut in threads. Refill the onion cups, heaping up the filling, strew with buttered crumbs and bake 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Each stuffed onion has about 240 calories as a total. Energy foods are here as well as the mineral elements needed for health: lime, iron, sulphur, magnesium, found in the onions and green pepper. Such vegetables also carry small amounts of protein but it is too low-grade by itself to be of value—that is why I specify serving baked custard for dessert, the milk protein brings up the average.

A large cast of prominent players is seen in the featured roles of the new James Cruze production, "Costello Case," which is now seen at the Fox West Coast theater.

Tom Moore, cast as a shrewd, genial policeman, is the prime mover in the solution of a baffling murder mystery around which the plot revolves. Lola Lane, who recently scored so emphatically with her sensitive characterization of Shirley in Cruze's "The Big Fight," appears in the role of Mollie, an innocent victim of police suspicion, and proves again her startling artistry in dramatic parts. Playing opposite her as the juvenile leading man is Russell Hardie, a recent recruit from the New York stage, who makes an effective portrayal as Jimmy, suspected as the perpetrator of a baffling crime.

Others in the cast are Wheeler Oakman, as Mile-Away Harry; Roscoe Karns as a newspaper reporter and William Davidson as Police Captain Saunders. Walter Lang directed the picture. F. McGrew Willis is the author of the story on which "Costello Case" is based.

NANCY CARROLL AND SISTER IN NEW PLAY

The two Carroll sisters, Terry and Nancy, are playing together in "Stolen Heaven," now being filmed at the Paramount New York studio.

Nancy is the star of "Laughter," and before that, of "The Devil's Holiday." Terry has been playing "Bit" roles at the Paramount studio and working in several Broadway productions. Terry bears a marked resemblance to her famous sister, is a blonde, and known for a disposition paralleling Nancy's.

The leaflet is free of charge all week if you will send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOX THEATERS TO SHOW MANY OLD FAVORITES

Due to the fact that many requests are always being received at the Fox theaters here for the return of this and that picture, Manager Norman Sprowl announced today that starting in the near future, probably on January 19, he would bring back some of the favorite attractions of the past year.

These "revivals" as they will be called, will be shown each Monday night at the Fox West Coast theater in conjunction with the regular picture giving the patrons the two shows for one admission on Monday night.

When the plan is put into operation the doors of the theater will open at 6:45 p.m., the regular feature will go on the screen at 7 p.m. and the "revival" will start promptly at 8:30 p.m. followed by the regular feature again, Sprowl said.

Just what pictures are to be brought back as revivals will be left to the public interest. A coupon will appear in The Register within the next day or so, and patrons of the Fox theaters are asked to fill it out, naming the picture they would like to see again and mail the coupon to "Theater Editor," care The Register. A careful tabulation of the votes received for each revival film will be made and the picture receiving the highest number of votes will be brought to the screen first.

CATTERTON SCORES IN NEW LOVE STORY

A "triple characterization," the first to be portrayed by one player in the history of the screen, is enacted by Ruth Chatterton in the new Paramount vehicle, "The Right to Love."

This intriguing drama of romantic sacrifice through three generations, is a dialogue picturization of Susan Glaspell's book, "Brook Evans."

Miss Chatterton plays the roles of a young girl of 1890, the same character as a mother in 1907, and the part of a modern daughter.

"PART TIME WIFE" SHOWN AT BROADWAY

Practically everyone is familiar with the golf widower, that sadly neglected victim of the man whose days are spent on the links and his nights in endless recountings of the birdies, eagles, and holes-in-one he almost made.

But golf widows were sadly neglected until Fox Movietone produced "Part Time Wife," which exposes the ills of a wife trying to manage the marital bark and at the same time compete in amateur golf tournaments.

Edmund Lowe is the golf widower in this attraction now showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

Business worries just about drive him frantic, and he forgets to observe their wedding anniversary. They quarrel, with golf the main cause.

Her pride stung to the quick, Leila Hyams threatens to leave. In his foolish anger, Lowe makes no attempt to stop her, so the begins one of those useless separations seen every day in real life. How Lowe's business worries increase and his health grows worse until he is ordered to take up the hated game of golf, and how a love effect a reconciliation between the lovers makes up the rest of the hilarious film.

BAD MEN COMPETE

William Boyd and Francis McDonald, established screen villains, are seen as rival gunners in Jack Oakie's current Paramount starring picture, "The Gang Buster."

The Scarab Murder Case

A PHILO VANCE STORY BY S. S. VAN DINE

After dinner we returned to Vance's roof-garden. The enervating mid-summer heat still held, and there was scarcely a breath of air stirring.

"I told Heath I'd phone him," Markham began, sinking into a large peacock wicker chair.

"I was about to suggest getting in touch with the Sergeant," Vance chimed in. "I'd rather like to have him on hand, don't you know. He's so comfortin'."

He rang for Currie and ordered the telephone. Then he called Heath and asked him to join us.

"I have a psychic feelin'," he said to Markham, with an air of forced levity, "that we are going to be summoned anon to witness the irrefutable proof of some one's guilt. And if that proof is what I think it is."

Markham suddenly leaned forward in his chair.

"It has just come to me what you've been hinting about so mysteriously!" he exclaimed. "It has to do with that hieroglyphic letter you found in the study."

Vance hesitated but momentarily. "Yes, Markham," he nodded. "That torn letter hasn't been explained yet. And I have a theory about it that I can't shake off—it fits too perfectly with the whole fiendish scheme."

"But you have the letter," Markham argued, in an effort to draw Vance out.

"Oh, yes. And I'm prizin' it." "You believe it's the letter Salvator said he wrote?"

"Undoubtedly."

"And you believe he is ignorant of its having been torn up and put in the doctor's waste-basket?"

"Oh, quite. He's still wonderin' what became of it—and worryin' too."

Markham studied Vance with baffled curiosity.

"You spoke of some purpose to which the letter might have been put before it was thrown away."

"That's what I'm waiting to verify. The fact is, Markham, I expected that the letter would enter into the mystery of the dagger throwing last night. And I'll admit I was frightfully downcast when I got the whole family snugly back to bed without having run upon a single hieroglyph."

He reached for a cigarette. "There was a reason for it, and I think I know the explanation. That's why I'm prizin' my childlike faith on what may happen at any moment now."

The telephone rang, and Vance himself answered it at once. It was Salvator calling from the Grand Central Station; and after a brief verbal interchange, Vance replaced the instrument on the table with an air of satisfaction.

"The doctor," he said, "was evidently quite willin' to endure to-night and tomorrow without his assistant curator. So that bit of strategy was achieved without difficulty."

Half an hour later Heath was ushered into the roof-garden. He was glum and depressed, and his greeting was little more than a guttural rumble.

"Lift up your heart, Sergeant," Vance exhorted him cheerfully. "This is Bastille Day. It may have a symbolic meaning. It's not beyond the realm of possibility that you will be able to incarcerate the murderer of Kyle before midnight."

"Yeah!" Heath was utterly sceptical. "Is he coming here to give himself up, bringing all the necessary proof with him? A nice, accommodating fella."

"Not exactly, Sergeant. But I'm expecting him to send for us; and I think he may be so generous as to point out the principal clew himself."

"Cuckoo, is he? Well, Mr. Vance, if he does that, no jury'll convict him. He'll get a bill of insanity with free lodging and medical care for the rest of his life." He looked at his watch. "It's ten o'clock. What time does the tip-off come?"

"Ten!" Vance verified the hour. "My word! It's later than I thought." A look of anxiety passed over his set features. "I wonder if I could have miscalculated this whole affair."

He put out his cigarette and began pacing back and forth. Presently he stopped before Markham, who was watching him uneasily.

"When I sent Salvator away," he began slowly, "I was confident that the expected event would happen forthwith. But I'm afraid something has gone wrong. Therefore I think I had better outline the case to you now."

He paused and frowned.

"However," he added, "it would be advisable to have Scarlett present. I'm sure he could fill in a few of the gaps."

Markham looked surprised.

"What does Scarlett know about it?"

"Oh, much," was Vance's brief reply. Then he turned to the telephone. "He hasn't a private phone, and I don't know the number of the house exchange."

"That's easy," Heath picked up the receiver and asked for a certain night official of the company. After a few words of explanation, he clicked the hook and called a number. There was considerable delay, but at length some one answered at the other end. From the Sergeant's questions it was evident Scarlett was not home.

"That was his landlady," Heath explained disgustedly, when he had replaced the receiver. "Scarlett went out at eight o'clock—said he was going to the museum for a while and would be back at nine. Had an appointment at nine with a guy at his apartment, and the guy's still waiting for him."

"Yes, can I reach him at the museum, then?" Vance rang up the Bliss number and asked Brush to call Scarlett to the phone. After several minutes he pushed the instrument from him.

"Scarlett isn't at the museum either," he said. "He came, so Brush says, at about eight, and must have departed unobserved. He's probably on his way back to his quarters. We'll wait a while and phone him there again."

"Is it necessary to have Scarlett here?" Markham asked impatiently.

"Not precisely necessary," Vance returned evasively; "but most desirable. You remember he admitted quite frankly he could tell me a great deal about the murder."

He broke off abruptly, and with tense deliberation selected and lighted another cigarette. His lids drooped, and he stared fixedly at the floor.

"Sergeant," he said in a repressed tone, "I believe you said Mr. Scarlett had an appointment with some one at nine and had informed his landlady he would return at that hour."

"That's what the dame told me over the phone."

"Please see if he has reached home yet."

Without a word Heath again lifted the receiver and called Scarlett's number. A minute later he turned to Vance.

"He hasn't shown up."

"Deuced queer," Vance muttered.

ed. "I don't at all like this, Markham."

His mind drifted off in speculation, and it seemed to me that his face paled slightly.

"I'm becoming frightened," he went on in a hushed voice. "We should have heard about that letter by now. I'm afraid there's trouble ahead."

He gave Markham a look of grave and urgent concern.

"We can't afford to delay any longer. It may even be too late as it is. We've got to act at once." He moved toward the door. "Come on, Markham. And you, Sergeant. We're overdue at the museum. If we hurry we may be in time."

Both Markham and Heath had risen as Vance spoke. There was a strange insistence in his tone, and a foreboding of terrible things in his eyes. He disappeared swiftly into the house; and the rest of us, urged by the suppressed excitement of his manner, followed in silence. His car was outside, and a few moments later we were swinging dangerously round the corner of Thirty-eighth street and Park Avenue, headed for the Bliss Museum.

CHAPTER XX

The Granite Sarcophagus (Saturday, July 14, 1919, p. m.)

We arrived at the museum in less than ten minutes. Vance ran up the stone steps, Markham and Heath and I at his heels. Not only was there a light burning in the vestibule, but through the frosted glass panels of the front door we could see a bright light in the hall. Vance pressed the bell vigorously, but it was some time before Brush answered our summons.

"Napping?" Vance asked. He was in a tense, sensitive mood.

"No, sir," Brush shrank from him. "I was in the kitchen."

"Tell Doctor Bliss we're here, and want to see him at once."

"Yes, sir." The butler went down the hall and knocked on the study door. There was no answer, and he knocked again. After a moment he turned the knob and looked in the room. Then he came back to us.

"The doctor is not in his study. Perhaps he has gone to his bedroom... I'll see."

He moved toward the stairs and was about to ascend when a calm, even voice halted him.

"Bliss effendi is not up-stairs." Hanl came slowly down to the front hall. "It is possible he is in the museum."

"Well, well," Vance regarded the man reflectively. "Amazing how you always turn up... So you think he may be potterin' among his treasures—eh, what?" He pushed open the great steel door of the museum. "If the doctor is in here, he's whiling away his time in the dark." Stepping to the stair-landing inside the museum door, he switched on the lights and looked about the great room. "You're apparently in error, Hanl, regarding the doctor's whereabouts. To all appearances the museum is empty."

The Egyptian was untruffed.

"Perhaps Doctor Bliss has gone out for a breath of air."

There was a troubled frown on Vance's face.

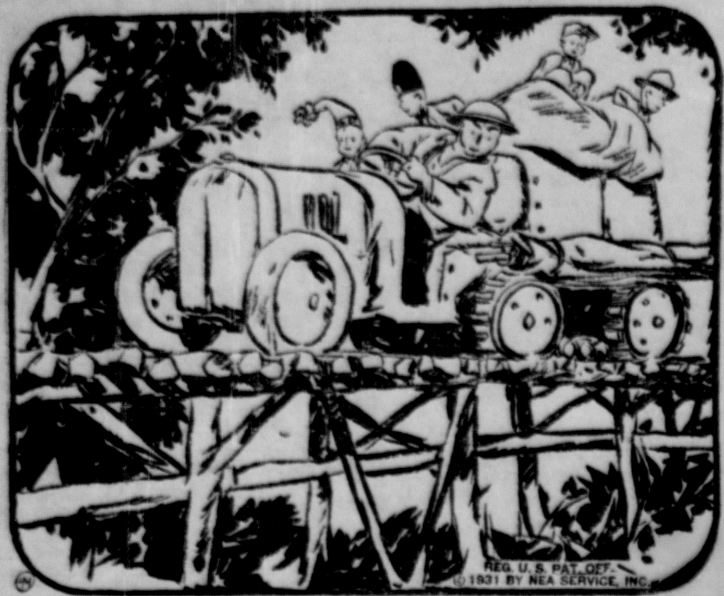

"That's possible," he murmured. "However, I wish you'd make sure he is not up-stairs."

"I would have seen him had he come up-stairs after dinner," the Egyptian replied softly. "But I will follow your instructions nevertheless." And he went to search for Bliss.

Vance stepped up to Brush and asked in a low voice:

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY MAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

They watched the natives work away and then wee Coppy shout-ed. "Hey! Won't someone tell what this scene is really all about?" "Why, sure," replied the Travel Man. "At least I'll do the best I can. The hippo that the natives like has died at sea, no doubt.

"When'er in water, hippos die, the natives who are passing by just wait around because they know they can soon drag it in. The hippo sinks down out of sight and then the next day, when it's light, it rises to the surface. Then the real fun can begin.

"The natives get some weeds, like rope and round about the beast they grope until they have some tow lines tied. Real work is then in store. A lot of men begin to yank. They pull until they're all tired out and then they pull some more."

The Tinies saw that he was right. Each one found it a thrilling sight to see the natives splash around and slowly drag the beast. They watched for 'bout an hour or more until the hippo was on shore. Now they could run right up to it. Their interest was increased.

The natives were a kindly sort and knew, to all the bunch, was sport to stand and eye a hippo, so they let the Tinies stay. When they'd seen all there was to see, the Travel Man said, "Follow me! We're going to go to Kisma. We will soon be on our way."

Into their truck they promptly piled. Each Tiny was a happy child. Not far away they came upon a spread of great big trees. A big limb bridge was shortly crossed. Said Clowny, "Gee, we might get lost!" "Oh, no," replied wee Scouty. "We'll get out of here with ease."

(The Tinies watch an elephant work in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FALL to TRAP—If you do not FALL in a TRAP while shooting this hole, a par five should come easy to you.

Plans For Huntington Beach Memorial Hall Approved

CONTRACT FOR WORK AWARDED WITHIN MONTH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—Plans for the new Memorial hall were approved and adopted by the city council at the meeting held last night. The plans were prepared by Shilling and Shilling, Long Beach architects. The Memorial hall is to utilize the present city auditorium as a part of the new structure, which will cost $30,000.

The auditorium, now fronting on Fifth street, will be the rear portion of the building, which will front on Sixth street. The stage in the auditorium will be torn out and a new stage built on the Fifth street side, which will afford a much larger seating capacity. The floor will be entirely new and the Fifth street entrance will be closed. There will be stage doors on either side of the present auditorium.

The Sixth street entrance will open with a large hall way or entrance room, from which a wide passageway leads back to the auditorium. The front section will also contain the kitchen and women's rest rooms.

The new section is to be two stories high and the upstairs will contain a hall for the American Legion and other veterans' associations, a conference room, lounges and rest rooms. The structure is to be dedicated by the city to the veterans of all wars. The plans had been submitted to the American Legion building committee and Commander Herbert Gray of Huntington Beach past, announced at the council meeting that the Legion fully approved the new plans.

The council advertised for bids on the construction job to be opened and the contract let in 30 days.

BETTY BOYNTON LA HABRA BRIDE

LA HABRA, Jan. 6.—A surprise was in store for the congregation of the Friends church Sunday morning. The surprise came when Miss Harriet Palmer stepped to the piano and sang "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Margaret Mitchell, of Whittier. Following this Miss Mitchell played a wedding march and Miss Betty Boynton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Boynton, of La Habra Heights, became the bride of Ralph Palmer, of Telegraph road.

Mrs. Palmer chose the traditional veil and wedding gown of white satin and wore a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and was attended by Miss Gertrude Clough as bridesmaid in a gown of light blue georgette in the new long fashion.

Arthur Vincent assisted as best man. The marriage lines were read by the pastor, the Rev. Harley Moore. Following a short honeymoon the young couple will locate on Telegraph road, the ranch home of the bridegroom's father, who has moved to Whittier.

The bride is a graduate of Fullerton high school with the class of 1929 and her husband is a graduate of the class of 1928, at Fullerton.

Form La Habra Epworth League

LA HABRA, Jan. 6.—Mrs. I. E. Weide organized an Intermediate Epworth league Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the Methodist church. Ethel Mae Weide was elected president of the league; Nellie Scofield was elected first vice president in charge of the spiritual department; Billy Boice, second vice president, missions; Evelyn McFadden, third vice president, social service; Adeline Stemple, fourth vice president, social department; Harold Morris, secretary-treasurer; Evelyn McFadden, pianist.

Sixteen boys and girls from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades were present at the meeting last night. They will meet each Sunday night hereafter at 6 o'clock in the primary room of the church. The president, Ethel Mae Weide, will conduct the lesson study next Sunday evening.

Cafe Is Damaged By Roving Auto

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 6.—Ed A. Page, 5024 Hastings road, San Diego, loaned his car to Ellis Nicholas, of Tulsa, Okla., a relative. Nicholas was out sightseeing. Arriving in San Clemente, he parked his car opposite the Cafe La Fiesta but forgot to set the brakes. Soon the car started going places. It ended up across the curb on the other side of the street, making a hole in the corner of the La Fiesta cafe.

Beach Council Adopts New Building Code

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 6.—A revised building ordinance, known as the uniform building code now in effect in many cities, was adopted by the Newport Beach city council last night, after it was recommended by City Attorney Roland Thompson and City Building Inspector A. M. Nelson.

NEW PERMIT REQUIRED FOR OIL REFINERY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 6.—City Clerk Charles R. Furr was requested by the city council at the meeting last night to notify the Superior Oil company that its permit for a refinery building on the east side had expired and that before starting building operations, a new permit must be applied for. Building permits are good for only 60 days.

Councilman Chris King called attention of the council to a concrete lamp that stands in the middle of the sidewalk at Walnut and Second streets. Street Superintendent Henry Wirth was instructed to remove the post to the curb.

The Business Men's association in a written invitation to the city council asked the presence of the council at a meeting of the association to be held the night of January 13 at 7 o'clock at American Legion hall on the east side.

The council accepted the invitation and each member of the council pledged his attendance when the mayor asked for a roll call and vote.

Judge C. P. Patton, chairman of the library board, asked permission of the council to expend $400 on a new furnace for the public library. The permission was granted.

Judge Patton explained that the old furnace was worn out and did not adequately serve its purpose. City Attorney Lewis W. Blodgett presented the new tax ordinance to the city council and it was adopted on first reading. The ordinance fixes the rate of tax penalties in accordance with state and county penalties. It also provides a way by which the city may deliver title to lots sold for taxes and not redeemed.

Tax buyers have shunned city taxes, paid county taxes and took title to property from the county and refused to pay delinquent city taxes. Buyers of delinquent taxes were unable to get a deed. The new ordinance remedies this condition and puts a lighter penalty burden for failure to pay first year taxes, although the total penalty for five-year delinquents is not changed.

The contract work has started here on east side streets including Quincy, Yorktown, Wesley avenue, Crest street and a block on Tenth street. The work which calls for an expenditure of about $30,000 will be completed within 45 days, according to report made to the city council by City Engineer Merwyn Rosson. Home labor will be given preference on the job, it was announced by Rosson.

D. O. Stewart will be asked to move a small frame house out of the Frankfort street line in the 600 block and the city will immediately begin filling in the street embankment at that point, with a view to widening Frankfort street to the 600 and 800 blocks on the east bluff. The city will have loose dirt to dispose of from street work in other parts of the city now in progress and this dirt will be used on the Frankfort street fill.

Frankfort street is a 60-foot street but about 15 feet of the width lays over the edge of the bluff and will have to be filled in bluff and will widen the street. In order to widen the street at present only a curve in the street is to be widened. The motion to start this work was made by Councilman Chris King and was seconded by Councilman Bayard Butcher. It took the form of a motion asking Mr. Stewart to move the house that sits just under the bluff and is occupied by Mr. Morse, the caretaker on the Stewart home place. Rosson reported that the east side lighting system to be installed by the Southern California Edison company. Ninety-eight new street lights are to be installed over the east side residence district.

HARBOR REALTORS CONVENE THURSDAY

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 6.—The first meeting of the Newport Realty board since its recent election of officers for 1931, will be held Thursday evening, beginning with a dinner at 6 p.m., at Morris' cafe. Louis W. Briggs succeeds Lew H. Wallace as president for the year.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY KIWANIS CLUB IN PAST YEAR

FULLERTON, Jan. 6.—New officers of the Fullerton Kiwanis club were installed into office last night at the annual meeting of the club in McFarland's cafe, when Otto Evans took office as president for the coming year, succeeding Jack Horner.

Other officers who took office include L. O. Culp, secretary-treasurer and district trustee, Jack Horner.

The program for last night's meeting was in charge of the past presidents of the club with Louis Plummer installing Evans as president. Other past presidents since 1921 when the club received its charter include Dale R. King, G. W. Finch, Dr. W. H. Wickett, Harry G. Maxwell, Jess Hardy, Louis E. Plummer, Ted Corcoran and Horner.

The program opened with the invocation by Dr. B. Dudley Shumard followed by a group of musical numbers by the club quartet composed of William Goodwin, Al Foster and R. A. Marsden. Harry Lee Wilbur accompanied on the piano. Wickett led in the singing of club songs.

A short report of the activities of the club since it received its charter in 1921 was given. Horner reported on the past year and thanked the club members for their co-operation which they had given him. He expressed appreciation for the coming year and urged his support by the entire club.

Albert Launer congratulated Horner on his success as president of the club during the past year and presented a gift from the club. A past-president's pin was presented to Horner by Jess Hardy. Appreciation of the club members for the services of Harry Wilbur, who has acted as club pianist for several years, was expressed by Wickett, who also presented a gift from the club to Wilbur.

Introduction of new officers, directors and committee members was under the direction of Evans after taking over the president's gavel.

"Hall Kiwanis," the club song, was led by Glenn Lewis with the club members and their wives, who were guests, singing. Committee chairmen announced for the coming year include Glenn Lewis, chorus; W. T. Boyce, local objectives; Albert Launer, On-To-Convention; Launer, program; A. M. Thompson, public affairs; Walter Skilman, publicity; L. O. Culp, personnel; G. W. Finch, pep and stunt; Halsey Spence, reception; Dr. W. H. Wickett, resolutions; Albert Eiton, scholarship; Ted Corcoran, show; Harry Dawkins, inter-club relations; Hubert Davis, Kiwanis, Kiwanis education; Louis E. Plummer, laws and regulations and Dr. W. H. Wickett, Music A.

CALIFORNIA PYTHIAN SISTERS' OFFICERS GUESTS AT TUSTIN PARTY

TUSTIN, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Effie Matthews, most excellent chief of the Pythian Sisters lodge, was hostess at a party in her home recently when she entertained for the out-going officers of the lodge, the degree staff and her committees. The rooms were prettily decorated with baskets of winter flowers.

Court whist was the evening's diversion, with attractive prizes for high and low scores being awarded to Mrs. Jessie Kiser and Mrs. Lottie Nordstrom. Concluding her hospitality, Mrs. Matthews served a delicious home made pie and coffee. Those sharing the happy affair, other than the hostess, included Mesdames Leona Alderman, Dolly Holford, Gladys Pierson, Mabel Hannaford, Grace Leinberger, Vera Comer, Gladys Kidd, Emma Shearn, Emma Christensen, Alice Gaylord, Nellie Thompson, Hilda Riehl, Jessie Kiser, Carrie Stearns, Hazel Harbort, Bertha Trickey, Vera Hawkins, Edith Matthews, Sarah Matthews, Emma Pankey, Mary Runnels, Gladys Peruzzi, Lavita Penman, Edna Squires and Miss Ethel Alderman.

Fruit growers are pleased with the results from the advertising campaign and the results are seen in the larger consumption of fruit which a few years ago was almost unknown in some parts of the country, the manager said. With the fruit a better grade due to extensive experiments, the consumption is increasing rapidly according to Raymond Easton was elected as director to the state board.

Approximately 25 growers from the local northern Orange county district attended the meeting yesterday, discussing the outlook for the crop and the items of marketing of the crop expected next year. Prices for the past year were exceptionally high, it was pointed out, in view of the size of the crop, and optimistic predictions were made for the coming year.

PASADENA VISITORS

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas and families, of Pasadena, were guests of the Hartley Combers over the week end. The visitors announced that they plan to stage a party at San Clemente in the near future, renting the Beach club and inviting friends from Pasadena and San Bernardino for a week end outing.

OPEN BIDS ON IMPROVEMENTS IN BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 6.—Two bids were received and read at the city council meeting last night for improving River avenue and other streets in the new canal district of West Newport. City Engineer Patterson figured the total bid of Lee R. Weber to be $60,554.25 and that of Q. U. Miracle, $75,953. The bids were taken under advisement until next Monday night's meeting, when the work is expected to be awarded to Weber.

The West Newport Improvement association urged the council in a letter to speed up the project of the overhead crossing at the intersection of the Coast highway and Newport boulevard, and it was announced by City Engineer Patterson that a meeting to discuss this matter had been arranged at the Newport Harbor Yacht club at noon today between the council and members of the board of county supervisors.

The state has agreed to pay half the cost of this project and engineers of the city, county, state and Southern Pacific railway have approved the plan. Today's conference was to determine what part of the cost would be borne by the county.

Miss Helen Coffin wrote complaining that an oil refining company had blocked part of a public street in West Newport, and the complaint was referred to the street superintendent.

George C. Hiner, who has the concession for selling live bait to fishermen at the Newport pier, asked for a renewal of his concession for five years. There were two other applications, both asking that public bids be allowed. This was laid over for future consideration.

Rum Capture Prevented By U. S. Boat

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 6.—Lights off shore at San Clemente the other night caused Capt. Harry Comber of the Spanish village police force to think of rum runners. Officer Comber, secured the aid of two citizens and began a search of the shore. He located a truck near the ocean, saw a boat off shore and prepared to set a trip to stop a truckload of booze as it started for Los Angeles. Just as the officer was congratulating himself on a large liquor capture, another boat came into sight. Then the boom of a cannon was heard. Soon there was a tat-tat-tat of a machine gun. The boat near the shore raced away with the government rum chaser in pursuit.

VIOLINIST IN LAGUNA BEACH CONCERT JAN. 9

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 6.—In response to many requests, Leon Burford, youthful violinist, son of Mrs. Fern Burford, will give a recital Friday evening at Hotel Laguna. Mrs. Nellie Schwankowsky will assist as soloist and accompanist.

When Clarence Gustaf, well known Santa Ana musician, was in Laguna Beach recently he commented highly on the skill of Mr. Burford and has taken a keen interest in the development of the young musician. The young musician played with the Santa Ana Philharmonic orchestra a year ago under the direction of Caesar Clamfoni, when other Laguna musicians were also members of the organization.

Mr. Burford, who is now studying with Vera Barstow at Whittier college, has also studied under Sylvain Noack, concert master of the Philharmonic orchestra.

Though scarcely out of his teens, Mr. Burford has given many years to the mastery of the violin and has received very favorable attention wherever he has appeared. Lovers of music are looking forward to the program offered by him and Mrs. Schwankowsky as one of the high lights of music of the season.

EVENING SALUTATION

"What does the Christian character or balanced life mean? It is this—Faith without credulity, conviction without bigotry, charity without condescension, courage without pugnacity, self-respect without vanity, humility without obsequiousness, love of humanity without sentimentality and meekness without power."

—CHIEF JUSTICE CHARLES E. HUGHES.

SENATE VOTES LOAN TO NEEDY

The United States senate yesterday added a $15,000,000 food loan fund to the $45,000,000 authorized for drought relief. This brings the total amount to $60,000,000 as was originally planned by those who were desirous of furnishing the larger amount for the needy. This increased amount, after a practical agreement on the $45,000,000, a compromise between the $60,000,000 that the Senate desired and the $30,000,000 that the President wished, was brought about by an incipient riot, really a concerted demand of several hundred heads of families in Arkansas for food for their starving dependents. They demanded it in such a way that it was granted.

The argument against this outlay as a loan for food has been rather summed up in the one word "dole," but whether it be designated "dole" or "loan" or whatever it may be called, when American citizens, who have always been able to support their families are confronted with the impossibility of employment, and their wives and children hungry and footless, either the country must act officially or private citizens act unofficially or the hungry people will act.

We know of no reason why under such emergencies it is not as high a degree of statesmanship to loan a man money to buy food for his family as it would be to loan him money to pay off a mortgage on his place or to put in his crops. The end of the raising of his crops and the saving of his home is human beings, and the human beings, being the object, now need food and immediately.

Some people have an idea that property is the object of life. The well-being of men and women and health and strength and moral and spiritual life are the object of all of our institutions. And if to keep them from starving it is necessary that our funds be used for loaning purposes, it is of as much importance, if not more, than loaning it for the purpose of saving or securing a home, or building a battleship for the protection of the nation, or loaning money to buy up the wheat crops.

Indeed in that particular we are confronted with what would be a ridiculous situation if it did not appear so ghastly in the light of present conditions. The Farm Board, with millions of dollars at its disposal, buying up scores of millions of bushels of wheat stored in granaries, buying it up with government money, and some of our people starving for this very wheat. And yet saying that while we can furnish money to buy the wheat to keep up the price, we cannot furnish money to buy the wheat to feed the hungry! It is well that red tape is being cut. It is unfortunate that fear rather than humanitarian and charitable principles should be the dominant force that brings about the relief. This is a crisis—an emergency, and rules that ordinarily are wise must be suspended in the interest of the common good.

FACING THE FACTS

One of the country's leading bankers, recently interviewed, felt somewhat encouraged concerning the business outlook because the leaders of finance and business were at last facing the facts. He believes that we would long ago have been on the way toward economic recovery had the facts been faced a year ago as they are now being faced. The concealment of conditions, the hesitation in admitting that business was in for a depression, the false theory that depressions are merely psychological anyway, and that all that is needed is for everybody to think that business is good, and that makes it so, was, according to this banker, the very worst possible attitude.

There is an old saying, "Better the bitterest truth, than the sweetest error." We have no more use for pessimists than the next man, but living in a fool's paradise has never been a praiseworthy performance. The real optimist is the man who looks facts squarely in the face, and then goes forward to meet them with the utmost confidence and the most energetic endeavor. That is what is now being done. It is a pity that it could not have begun a year ago with the same determination as today. It may be that the winter of 1930-31 might have been telling a different story. We have been playing the part of Micawber, that character of Dickens, who always saw success around the corner, but was always waiting for it to turn up. That bubble blower has become the representative of all those who refuse to face the facts of life.

HAT OFF TO NORTH

In Southern California we have many advantages, but in political brains we take our hat off to the North. They have elected the Governor and the Speaker of the House.

They couldn't do it, to be sure, without some votes from the South, but in each case they succeeded in garnering in the required number. We are not objecting to the North running the political situation particularly. It depends upon the brand of politics with which they run it. But you have to express admiration for them in getting away with it, and making the South like it!

CONSTABLE ROEHM

Among the new officials who took office yesterday and whose name was not mentioned in a Register editorial because his was a township post, was that of Cornish J. Roehm, who became a constable for Santa Ana township.

The rise of Cornish Roehm to the post of constable is the result of a young man giving his all in whatever position he was placed. Roehm is a graduate of the Santa Ana high school and until his election to the post of constable was a patrolman on the Santa Ana police force.

Roehm made a host of friends as a patrolman and his courteousness as a traffic officer and his ever present smile brought him success in his first endeavor to enter politics. Roehm is a capable young fellow and we know that he will devote his talents to his new office in the same manner as he did as a patrolman. We extend our congratulations to Roehm along with those to the other five new office holders.

A New York mounted policeman declined to be promoted to the detective force. He'll learn yet to get off his high horse.

QUITE A DISTANCE

"The sun," says Dr. Piet Van de Kamp of the McCormick observatory, "is 20 quintillion miles from the Milky Way."

We are impressed that he has made a mistake of a few miles, but as we have never seen the Milky Way and the sun at the same time, we haven't been able to exercise our judgment. And we haven't been greatly interested anyhow, as excursion tickets are not available, and California is attractive to us.

Making Films That Children Enjoy

(Christian Science Monitor)

One of the happiest developments in motion pictures during 1930 has been the growing consideration given by the producers to making entertainments that would appeal to children. One of the unhappiest results of the introduction of sound films was the considerable loss of child audiences. With much of the interest of the story set forth in the form of dialogue, boys and girls were puzzled by words they did not understand, and disappointed by the absence of action.

With the coming of the talkies, the juvenile audience slipped in considerable numbers away from the cinemas. Their absence was scarcely noticed at first, as the novelty of audible films had brought additional adult spectators into the theaters. But when that newness wore away, the attendance of adults fell off somewhat, thereafter to fluctuate according to the merits of the offerings. In the trade papers there crept in with increasing frequency reference to the absence of juvenile audiences from the talkies. One thing that could be done about this lapsing of interest would be to get back some of the liveliness of action which made the pictures in motion live up to their name in the silent film days.

That is what has happened during the last four months. Longer and longer grow the periods of silence in films, and personages speak now chiefly when they have something to say that will reveal character or will help carry on the story. Gradually the children are being won back to the pictures. The producers frankly admit that they need the attendance of children, not for present revenue merely, but as a means of building the audiences of the future. Furthermore, pictures that are suitable for youngsters and are still entertaining to their parents have the happiest sort of effect on the motion picture business in improving its good repute.

Such pictures as "Tom Sawyer," "With Byrd at the South Pole," Griffith's "Lincoln," "Disraeli" with George Arliss and "Lightning" with Will Rogers will do more for the future prosperity of the films than twenty sensational pictures made according to box-office specifications that are based only on adult tastes. The mainstay of the industry has always been the films that could be witnessed by the whole family. This is why it is so pleasant to note that the producers are proceeding with evident sincerity in their effort to make part of their films interesting to juveniles. Pictures that will entertain the whole family, including the children, justify their production, even in immediate returns, because they increase good will toward motion pictures generally.

Makers of High Hats

(New York Times)

There is no problem of old-age pensions in the silk-hat industry. Men over 45 are not discharged, and their nerves are not shattered by the din of machinery. At present there are only forty "builders" of silk hats in the country, according to The Kansas City Star. The majority of them are more than 70 years of age. To learn how to make a sleek and comfortable "topper" requires an apprenticeship of from five to seven years, so young blood is lacking.

The pace of modern life may send the silk hat the way of its less graceful predecessor. Abraham Lincoln wearing a top hat is a familiar picture. In his day there were real "stovepipes." They were long and narrow and made of fine beaver fur, clipped close and dyed black. From a distance they gleamed like the spire of a skyscraper. It might be well if Easter Sunday parades, funeral attenders and opera-goers got together and gave thought to the plight of the silk hat before the venerable forty are themselves borne away by a group of high-hatted mourners. A machine-made silk hat might not rest as easily on the head maintaining dignity and etiquette.

Fellowship

(Oakland Tribune)

Willingness to give is not confined to those who have money. There is ever present within the community a deep well of generosity to which little public attention is given. Out of it come the daily inconspicuous services which make life the better and prove to men and women the enduring fellowship of society.

In Oakland a penniless man was near death at the county hospital and there came an appeal from the medical director and superintendent of the county hospital for someone to give, not money, but a share of life-giving blood. Immediately there were 14 volunteers, men willing to submit to the transfusion operation for the sake of one whom they had never seen. There were those who sent money to pay for the operation or to have it waived when another case of the kind was revealed.

Out of the heart of the city came this volunteer aid and with no thought of reward or public attention. It came to give a chance to a penniless man who was in dire need.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ABSENCE MAKES THE HEART GROW FONDER

I haven't any taste for crime,
Embarrassed I should feel
Were I to leave off writing rhyme
To forge or rob or steal.
I never had the least desire
To figure in the ranks
Of low-browed people who aspire
To raid and rifle banks.
And yet my favorite story-books
Are those which deal with crafty crooks.

I'd hate to sink and pillage boats
As does the buccaneer,
And cut my helpless captives' throats
Across from ear to ear.
That men could play the pirate's trade
Sincerely I deplore,
For it would make me ill to wade
Through slippery streams of gore.
But books that tell of crimes at sea
Bring solace and content to me.

If I should meet a racketeer
In any public place
Who wore a black and evil sneer
Upon his scowling face,
I should not watch him leer and lower,
Straight up would rise my hair
And promptly as was in my power
I'd go away from there.
And yet I find untold delight
In news about a gangster fight.

Business Forecasts for 1931.

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

A group of financial statisticians met in New York City on November 4. They were experts in forecasting business. This is what eight of the experts said:

"The farmers will not buy much from the proceeds of this harvest; and, with price declines in process throughout the world, there would seem to be little prospect of any extensive business revival in the near future."

"No great change in business is in prospect. The general prospect is for slow and irregular business for ten years."

"I expect to see a long and slow recovery to a general level of sub-normal, slow business."

"Prices will advance a little from present levels and then fall once more. Recovery will be slow."

"Conditions abroad will continue to affect our business conditions here. It is a conservative estimate to say that ten years must elapse before we can see genuinely prosperous business in this country."

"Business will come back to fair, slow operation in three years."

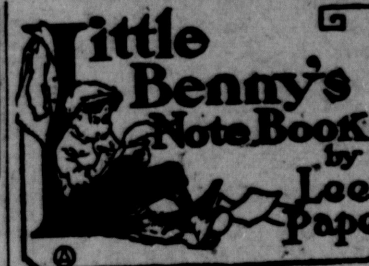

"The period of readjustment will be long. It will take at least ten years."

"We may expect a slow return to a basis in which business can be done at a profit in about three years."

Those pessimistic forecasts were all made on the 4th of November. But it was the 4th of November of the year 1921. At that very time, business was actually improving, though the experts did not know it. Within four months, the gain was so marked that everybody could see it. Within sixteen months, business was so far ABOVE normal that the experts got frightened again.

Right now, the major factors are even more favorable to rapid recovery of business than they were at the close of the year 1921.

Me and Puds Simkins was wawking along just wawking along and we saw a baby carriage with a baby in it waiting outside of the meet store, and we was standing there looking at the baby on account of not having anything else to do and the baby was looking back at us properly for the same reason, and I sed, Hear comes Shorty Judge, lets lereden we was hired to watch this baby and ask him if he wants the job.
Sure, he's a easy mark, Puds sed, And Shorty came up and I sed, Hay Shorty, do you want to make some money? This baby's mother asked us to watch it for her and we're tired of watching it? I sed.

Sure, I ain't doing anything, Shorty sed. And he started to stand alongside of the baby and me and Puds each leened against a awning pole like 2 people glad to be out of work, and the lady kepp on not coming out and Shorty started to look at us suspicious, and pritty soon Lucy Leroy Shooter came up and Shorty sed, Hay Lucky do you want a job, I'm tired watching this baby, its mother must be buying enough meat to start a meet store of her own, do you want to do it, Lucky Leroy saying he did, and Shorty leened against another awning pole and Leroy stood there alongside of the baby. Being a baby with blue eyes and one tooth, and pritty soon a lady came out of the meet store and put 3 packdges in the baby carriage with the baby, Leroy saying to her, Im the one thats watching your baby, lady.
O, are you, I must say I was getting a little worried and its nice to know he was being watched, I think I have some paines, the lady sed.
Which she had, and she gave them to Lucky Leroy, sounding like at least 5 or 6.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

JANUARY 6, 1917

One of the pleasing events of the week was the dinner party given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Kendall in observance of their twenty-first wedding anniversary.

At the opening ball of the Hebard Dancing Academy last evening, 175 couples took part in the grand march, led by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg.

A very charming evening party with about twenty friends present was given yesterday by Miss Mary Smart in her home on North Main street.

The Rev. W. L. H. Benton arrived here last evening from San Diego to take up his labors as rector of the Church of the Messiah, succeeding the Rev. R. S. Chase, who has gone to Pasadena.

A serious automobile accident was narrowly avoided this noon when C. D. Lester, driving a large car, struck H. Wagner in a small machine.

Mrs. Robert Northcross of North Main street was hostess at a jolly affair yesterday afternoon when she entertained members of the Tattling Club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Martin went to Los Angeles this morning to spend the week end with Mrs. Martin's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. G. D. MacMillan.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THINKING IN SHADOWS

I have just returned to my hotel from an exhilarating walk.

It was an exhilarating walk from two points of view:

The air of Washington this afternoon has a tonic crispness.

And I was walking with one of the simplest and wisest men America has produced in this generation.

We were speaking of economic conditions and the business outlook.

"What a day of brilliant sunshine!" I exclaimed, as we strolled straight into the sun.

"Why, no," my companion said, as he looked behind him. "It's a dark day, indeed. Look at the shadow."

He was looking at the shadow he cast behind him. He had turned away from the brightness of the sun.

And then he laughed.

"That's just what the nation is doing," he said, "looking backward. We are wallowing in statistics about the past. We are reeling drunkenly, in an orgy of analysis of our past mistakes. We are looking at our economic shadow when we should be marching into the sun."

He was a man acutely aware of the world forces that center into the current economic situation. Never has there been an American less inclined to fool himself. He knows that the men at the very center of policy-making in business and in politics must "wallow in statistics about our past," but he knows that the almost diseased concentration of the rank and file of us on the immediate past is unwarranted and nationally dangerous. He knows that for the average American the immediate future holds recovery, not disaster. We shall not solve all the tangled problems of the machine age next month, but business recovery, within comfortable and healthy bounds, is inevitable.

Since time began, certainly since the modern business system got under way, abnormal consumption has been followed by subnormal consumption and, after the period of fear has passed, normal consumption has returned, and a bit later the circle has been rounded to high consumption again.

All of our experience points to the fact that the phase of subnormal consumption has about run its course.

Let's forget our shadow and walk into the sun.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

TEASING

Teasing is a form of bullying. One child discovers that he can make another child cry and squeal and make all kinds of a fuss by teasing him. This gives him a certain satisfaction. Makes him feel superior to the one he torments. That is bad for the teaser and certainly no good comes out of the idea for the teased one.

Occasionally the teased one likes the game. He usually it is she, will screech and pull away and return to the sport. "Now you stop, you s-t-o-p." The tormentor stops for the instant and at once the teased one returns with, "I dare you. See, you can't touch me. Now you s-t-o-p."

When that happens you know that both are enjoying themselves hugely, and when you have stood it as long as you can, you send both their separate ways, an errand to each. You do not mention the teasing. It will take care of itself.

But when a young child teases a still younger one, a helpless one, the matter is far different. It must stop. Separate them at once. Give each of them something to do that will keep their minds fully occupied. Say nothing about the teasing at that time. When you have the bullying child by himself, and in the right mood, tell him that he is bullying a weaker child and that it is something no real boy ever does, no real girl ever allows.

Teasing can be very cruel. Sensitive children suffer keenly when teased, especially so when this happens before others. Teasing always descends to personalities and that is precisely what the shy child avoids. He will do anything rather than have attention centered upon his belongings, his mannerisms, himself.

"Your ears are getting red, Jerry," sings a dancing girl to a silent boy who tries to hide in a corner. Poor Jerry. His ears instantly go back on him shamefully and burn in crimson hue. "Look, look, Jerry's ears are red. Oh, Jerry. What I know about you."

Jerry is helpless. He cannot run away, he cannot strike a girl, he must bear his humiliation as best he may. What fun a girl can get out of a shy boy's suffering is a mystery. There is one thing she will not get, however much she may want it, and that is the good word of Jerry. His hand will be against her. That again is bad for Jerry and bad for the little girl. Children ought to grow happily together.

Brothers and sisters seem to feel free to tease each other mercilessly. It is a bad game. The moment it begins the group ought to be separated and given plenty to do. The separation ought to last long enough to make an impression.

Teasing a baby until it cries in anger is about the meanest form of this mean game. A baby is helpless. He can but suffer. He can do one thing more. He can, and he does, withdraw his affectionate trust in the person who teases him. That leaves the teaser just the joy of tormenting a baby. Any way you look at it, teasing is a poor game.

SUMNER'S BIRTH

On Jan. 6, 1811, Charles Sumner, famous American statesman and orator, was born in Boston. Following his graduation from Harvard law school and his passing the bar he became a writer and lecturer on law. He took no part in politics, however, until 1840, when he identified himself actively with the anti-slavery movement.

In 1845 he delivered in Boston a notable Fourth of July oration which offended prominent Whigs and finally led to his withdrawal from their party. He then became a leader of the Free Soil party and in 1850 was elected to succeed Daniel Webster in the United States senate. Here he waged an uncompromising war on slavery.

In one of his speeches he so enraged members of congress from South Carolina that one of them, Preston S. Brooks, assaulted Sumner at his desk in the senate chamber.

This attack, which incapacitated him for four years, led to the disease which ended his life.
